Party was well attended, with delicious food.

Sara Bogle Martin was honored with a Retirement Party at Carlisle County Extension Office April 1. She has worked in the position of Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences for 15 years. She has extensive work skills, having worked both in Fulton County, where she had started. Prior to that, she was employed at Purchase District Health Department as Nutritionist.

Sara stated, "I am happy that the Extension Service has an excellent facility." She further stated that she is planning to enjoy her retirement.

A meeting to elect a Low-Income Representative and Alternate from Carlisle County to serve on the West Kentucky Allied Services Board of Directors was held at the Carlisle County Senior Center on March 29 at 10 a.m. Tony Dowdy, WKAS Assistant Director, presided over the meeting.

Dowdy explained the purpose of the meeting and the necessity of having a low-income representative from our county serve on the Board.

Those attending signed the Attendance Form. Income Certification forms were filled out by persons meeting income eligibility. Ballots for Board Member were passed out with instruction not to fill out until after all nominations were made. Nominations were accepted from the floor for WKAS Board Member. Geniece Gibson nominated to elect Carissa Viniard and Mona Moyers nominated Geniece Gibson. No other nominations were made. Kimberly Patterson made the motion the individual with the most votes will be the board member and the one that receives the next to highest votes be approved as the alternate. The motion passed unanimously. Ballots were filled out and Carissa Viniard was elected as the new WKAS Board Member by a 4 to 1 vote.

Geniece Gibson agreed to be the Alternate Board Member in case Viniard couldn't attend a meeting.

Marbry thanked everyone that attended and also thanked the Carlisle County Senior Center for making their facility available to WKAS to hold their meeting.

The meeting was adjourned.

Billboards installed at historic site

Travelers coming into Kentucky at Wickliffe will be greeted by large, colorful, recently installed billboards at the entrance at Wickliffe Mounds State Historic Site. Two large billboards across from the entrance of the State Park and two smaller billboards just inside the entrance were installed at Wickliffe Mounds last week. KYGRRO, with funding from the Federal Highway Administration, partnered with Wickliffe Mounds, KY Dept. of Tourism, and KY Transportation Cabinet to make the signage possible.

New trail signage marking the Woods Walk Trail and the Archeology Trail were also installed on State Park property. The trail signs provide park visitors directional, interpretive, and historic information about what was discovered at each numbered post during archaeological excavations.

"The newly designed billboards present a fresh new aesthetic to travelers entering the Commonwealth, one that reflects Kentucky's modernity, but also our rich archaeological history and Mississippian Native American culture", says Carla Hildebrand, Wickliffe Mounds Park Manager. Hildebrand noted the previous signs were faded, torn, and more than ten years old at the entrance. She stated, that without assistance of Norma Pruitt, KYGR-

RO Executive Director, she would have no idea when the signs could be improved.

"KYGRRO realized a funding opportunity for the new signs through the Federal Highway Administration signage plan", says Ms. Pruitt, which she said is a part of the branding program for the Ky Great River Road National Scenic Byway.
