

Vikings work on walks

Fundamentals key for MGM, says coach

Barry Hightower inherits a Mary G. Montgomery team that went 11-17 last season and hopes his team grows up in a hurry this year.

“It’s just a matter of us being steady and making the routine plays,” he said. “We’re trying not to walk anybody and we’re also striving not to give up free bases on errors.”

Although this is the first year Hightower is the head coach at MGM, by no means does he come in lacking in coaching experience. Before taking over the Vikings, he was at Rehobeth for two years and Jackson for four years. He was also at Opelika for 13 years and had college coaching experience, notably at Troy.
