Art students were honored when this year's Fire Safety Art Contest results were announced at Clinton Fire Station 2. The competition, sponsored by the Clinton Fire Department and the Arts Council of Clinton, features the young artists' works framed and displayed on the wall of the fire station, where they will be shown throughout the next year.

Fire Chief Jeff Blackledge and Robert Blanton, Arts Council president, announced and congratulated the students at a reception attended by family members, art teachers and Arts Council members.

The winners and their paintings included Chloe Smith, Clinton Park Elementary School, whose theme was "Meet in a Safe Place;" Reagan Rushing, Northside Elementary School, "Dog House Escape Plan;" Ethan Wrather, Eastside Elementary School, "Firefighters;" Greer Vincent, Eastside Elementary School, "Dalmatian Dante;" Amethyst Szasa, Clinton Junior High School, "Firemen Saving Our Lives;" and Julia Moller, Sumner Hill Junior High School, "The Unsung Hero." The competition is an annual observation in October for Fire Prevention Month.

Chief Blackledge said, "We are pleased to continue this special competition with the Arts Council and especially proud of the art work displayed here throughout the year. We have visitors at the station who are very appreciative of the talent and thought shown in the students' art."
