An Episode.

Crookston Tribune: A story peculiar to this neck of the woods, yet like many others happening daily, comes to light today. It appears that six months ago Mrs. Cyril Coe of Red Lake Falls disappeared from her husband and though he searched, he searched in vain. Circumstances involved one Arthur Lacoursiere and Mr. Coe, thinking he had matters figured out about right, left on the recent U. C. T. excursion for Duluth where he found Lacoursiere and Mrs. Coe living as man and wife. The man was arrested and is in jail under $500 bonds which he could not furnish, and Mrs. Coe pleaded so hard for forgiveness that her husband allowed her to return with him, passing through Crookston this morning enroute to Red Lake Falls.

At the residence of the bride's parents at Michigan City, N. D. on Thursday, June 7th, F. J. Dunwoody, to Miss Stella McHaffie. The bride is a very highly respected young lady who has a host of friends here, having been one of the teachers in our village school. The groom, who is our County Superintendent, is very popular and well liked by all. The happy couple passed through here today on their way to Bemidji where they will make their future home.—Bagley Independent.

Life lies in the blood. Strength lies in the iron of the blood. Disease consumes the iron, all fever burns and destroys it. The Urine becomes red or brown from iron which has been devitalized and secreted from the body through sickness and disease. Human life is frail and weak and is in a constant turmoil and struggle to supply the daily loss of iron. Weakness and paleness stand as witnesses that the human body is starving for nature's remedy, iron. 50 doses of H. W. Barker's Iron Compound will supply all the iron needed for three pounds of blood. It is the best remedy known to medical science and recommended by physicians.—P. M. Mark.

ADAPTING FASHIONS.

WOMEN SHOULD SELECT STYLES TO SUIT THEMSELVES.

Something Fetching in Dinner and Visiting Gowns—When Fashions Are Generally Adopted, Leaders Always Change Them.

It is in the adaptation of fashion to their personal aspect that consists the true coquetry of women. And yet how few of them put in practice this aphorism, says the European edition of the New York Herald.

The stylish dress for a small dinner party shown herewith is entirely of string colored guilpe made up over a ground of Ophelia colored faille with a transparency of mousseline de sole to match the silk between the two materials. The form of the dress, is the princess cut, with a tunic falling over a skirt trimmed with narrow fluffy flounces of mousseline de sole overlapping and bordered round the bottom with guilpe like the body of the dress. On the side of the chest is a rosette of Ophelia colored tulle with ends falling over the dress as far as the knees.

Another sketch shows a stylish dress for paying visits or for the races, as it is now admissible either to dress for these sporting occasions or to go in tailor made costumes. The question is accepted as a matter of personal taste or regulated by the weather and the importance of the race meeting. The dress in question is of mauve and white silk stripe. The corsage, which is almost entirely composed of yellow guilpe, is trimmed with braces of striped ribbons to match the dress. They also encircle the corsage and form an aigret bow on the left side of the chest. The sleeves are of guilpe, with turn back cuffs "en l'aveuse." Over the skirt is a tunic partly covering it, and there is a lace flounce around the bottom ending in a short train.

In the days when fashions in dress were supposed to be intended for the especial purpose of displaying a beauty or concealing a defect, says the New York Sun, it was said that ugly women introduced them, and pretty women were foolish enough to follow them even to the extent of disguising every pretty line of the figure. But in these fin de siecle days it is ugly man who leads in the fashion making, with commercial advantage as his guiding principle, and all women follow him, not blindly perhaps, but very diligently, looking upon his creations as inexorable laws which in certain directions at least must be observed without protest. While he must keep pace with the growing tendency toward the artistic and beautiful in dress, change is his motto, and sleeves and skirts expand and contract without rhyme or reason, as the master of modes may find it conducive to the success of his business.

No Opiates, MATT J. JOHNSON'S No Poisonous Cures all kinds of Rheumatism. 6088 Cures all kinds of Blood Trouble--a Guaranteed Cure.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY West Superior, Wis.
Matt J. Johnson Co., West Superior, Wis.
Dear Sirs—I take pleasure in testifying to the merits of your prescription, No. 6088; it is sure death to rheumatism. In December, 1896, I was greatly troubled with sciatic rheumatism. I was unable to walk without great pain, and could only lie with ease in one position. Your prescription was recommended to me by Mr. J. B. Darnell. I purchased two bottles and noticed an improvement on the third day, and when the second bottle was used up I was practically well and have not had a return since. I can frankly state that it cured me. Yours truly,
