THE TALL PINE TREES.

Some of the Giants of the Lutheran Conference.

Probably at none of the eleven annual conferences has the United Norwegian church so fully merited its title as by the one which closed at Bethlehem church, Minneapolis, recently. The last vestige of strife appears to have been removed, and the church is now launched on a prosperous and happy work. Its mission is still to promote harmony and unity, and it is not unlikely that the majority of those who sat in the conference which has just ended its labors may see all or nearly all the Norwegian Lutherans in America gathered in one fold. Such an idea would have been derided a few years back, and, while traces of former schism are still observable, there are many happy augeries for the future. There are still four principal sects, or, rather, factions; but the prejudices of the older members is hardly shared by the younger generation. Quite certain it is that when the English language prevails that complete unity is not far distant.

The tendency to break into English was noticed among many of the speakers, and some made it a point to employ the language of the country every time they spoke, and never once did any one make any of the objections to this speech, as the writer has heard in years past.

Already two clergymen use English exclusively—the Rev. Gustav Stearns of Milwaukee and Rev. H. B. Kildahl of Chicago—while a great many others conduct services in English at least once a month, while the so-called English conference is growing rapidly. The most active leader in this latter movement is Dr. E. G. Lund, one of the professors at the United Church seminary in Minneapolis.

The affairs of the church are wholly in the hands of the lay delegates. While the priests, of course, wield a powerful influence and do the bulk of the talking, the laymen think independently and vote according to the dictates of their own common sense. They are a very interesting body, these laymen. The majority are farmers, sturdy immigrants, who came to America with hardly more than a pair of strong, willing arms, and have by their own industry, advanced themselves to positions of independence, while many have acquired much wealth.

One of these is Assmund Wing of Goodhue county, who calls himself a farmer, but by others is ranked as a millionaire. He has many big farms, and is also interested in other enterprises. Adam Olson of Long Lake, Martin county, is not a poor man, but his greatest wealth is his family. All of his eight children are married and have large families, and when all are gathered together, the venerable layman sees four generations around him. Mr. Olson is himself eighty-two years old, but one of the jolliest and most active of all those in attendance, and he is proud of his family of over one hundred, among whom there has been only one death in fifty-eight years.

Not all the leading men are farmers, however. Halle Steensland of Madison, Wis., is the Swedish-Norwegian consul; Samuel Nelson is a well-to-do merchant of Lanesboro; O. A. Veblen is a banker of Blooming Prairie; N. I. Nelson is a wealthy merchant of Little Mills, Iowa; W. F. Christiansen is a big furniture manufacturer in Chicago. Halle Steenslaud, who is invariably called "Consul," is one of the most generous of benefactors. To the school building fund alone he has contributed $5,000. He attends every session with the greatest fidelity, and, as chairman of the board of trustees, his work is second only to that of President Hoyme in importance.

President Hoyme is the master spirit of the church, and, without seeming to do so, undoubtedly controls the body with a gentle hand and wise counsel. He is a graduate of Augsburg seminary, and has for years been located at Eau Claire, Wis.

Another exceedingly valuable official is Rev. J. C. Jensson-Roseland, the secretary. To use ready phrase, he is "sawing wood" all the time, and in addition to keeping an accurate minute of all the proceedings and caring for the records and reports, he always has full charge of transportation matters.

Any mention of the leading men of the United States would be quite incomplete withoutj reference to Rev. Iver H. Dahl of Ratna, Iowa. With his round, ruddy face, his great girth and his mutton-chop whiskers, he is a perfect subject for the cartoonist's idea of John Bull. None will be surprised to hear that he carries 350 pounds avoirdupoise with him wherever he goes. About twenty-five years ago he was a missionary in one of the native states in the Madras presidency of India, and smiles indulgently when anyone speaks of hot weather, for he can remember the time when the thermometer never went below 99 degrees, even at night, for three long, weary months. The rajah of the state, with six names of five or more syllables each, offered every inducement to have Rev. Mr. Dahl remain, and even offered to make him his minister; but seven years of India was all he wanted.

Then there is Rev. John Olson of St. Ansgar, Iowa. It is said of him that he never missed a stated service in his church for thirty years until last winter. His particular charge at present is St. Olaf college, of whose board of trustees he is chairman. He has a fine face and is highly respected. The same may be said of Rev. L. M. Bjorn of Zumbrota, Minn., who has seen himself grow old in the service of the church. He was president of the anti-Missourian Brotherhood when it seceded from the Norwegian synod, and at the union became vice president of the new church. He is especially interested in foreign missions and is an able worker.

Lack of time and space forbid any special mention of such other pioneers as Rev. P. G. Ostby of Emmons, Minn.; Rev. A. Wright, Rushford, Minn; and Rev. N. C. Brun, Lake Mills, Iowa., or such other able and earnest workers as Vice President J. M. Dahl of Stoughton, Wis.; President O. M. Bockman, of the United Church seminary; President J. N. Kildahl and the Rev. Messrs. Halvard Roalkvam, Coon Valley, Wis.; N. J. Ellestad, Holden, Minn.; A. Ofstedahl, Chicago; Jens A. Ofstedahl, Grafton, N. D.; Peder Dryer, Harmony, Minn.; J. Muller Eggen, Lyle, Minn.; H. C. Holm, Eagle Grove, Iowa; G. A. Larson, Moorhead; Iver Tharaldsen, Madison, Minn.; O. Gulbrandsen, Blair, Wis.; N. G. Petterson, Lisbon, Ill., and several others of both the older and younger clergy.

All in all, it is an interesting body, this United Norwegian church, strong in purpose, earnest in the work, and having possibilities for great and glorious success.

THE BALTIC.

(A poem by King Oscar II. of Sweden and Norway, while he was Prince Oscar Frederik. It originally appeared in his "Memoirs of the Swedish Fleet," and has been set to music by Myrberg.)

Thou blue-waved sea, that so many thousand years
'Gainst Scandia's rock-bound coast hast blown;
That hast broken thy bonds 'mid each gray spring's tears
And to distant shores gamboling flown—
To thee I now sing, for I long to be there
When the soft waves play across the rocks.

What joy to be out there; how the billows gleam,
When the gentle spring winds are Maying;
When balmy waves shimmer in blue and in green,
And light-beams 'mid crests are playing!
See, the breakers' sheen is so gleaming, ly white,
Where the soft waves play against the rocks.

But shaketh the Storm King his powerful wings,
Rendering ash-gray the Sea Nymph's cheek;
And freeth my sails from the loud-bursting rings,
In a thousand strips, the wind so bleak;
Then loud beateth my heart with pride e'en greater
'Mid fierce waves that roar against the rocks.

Ye billows, swinging and rolling and roaring;
Beauteous, glimmering and clear main,
Oh, sing to me of heroic deeds soaring,
And teach me thy lyrics to explain.
I listen with delight to legend so rich,
When the high waves dash against the rocks.

—English translation by George Reinoltz-Lillejeberg.

Dr. Swensson and His Work.

Dr. Carl O. Swensson, the new president of Augustana college, at Rock Island, the chief Swedish educational institution in America, is one of the most influential Swedes in America. The selection is particularly happy and, while the statement may appear broad, there is no hesitancy in saying that the Augustana synod could not have bettered its choice in the wide world. Highly gifted as a speaker, a man of fine literary attainments, of undoubted executive ability and unbounded enthusiasm, with a genial manner and fine presence, he is a credit and honor to the Swedish people in America.

Dr. Swensson will be forty-three years old next Monday, having been born at Sugar Grove, Pa., June 25, 1857. He was a member of the first class graduated from Augustana college, with which his father, the zealous pioneer clergyman, Rev. Jonas Swensson, took such a leading part in upbuilding. Dr. Swensson's great work has been done at Lindsborg, Kas., where he founded Bethany college and, by his own particular genius, made it second only to the State University of Kansas in size and importance, and vieing in attendance with Augustana college, although the latter has the whole country to draw from. Dr. Swensson's power of attracting students and instilling enthusiasm among his assistants is almost marvelous.

An Adept in Physical Culture.

Hartvig Nissen has accepted the appointment as director of physical training in the Brookline, Mass., public schools, and the board must be congratulated in having secured one of the most competent men in America. Coming to Washington in 1853, after having taken extended courses in Norway and Germany, he opened the first school in Washington. The government then placed him in charge of the work in the public schools. Since then he has served in a similar capacity at Johns Hopkins university; at the Catholic university, Georgetown, D. C. The government bureau of education sent him to the New Orleans exposition. Since 1891 Prof. Nissen has been in Boston, and, in addition to his work in the schools he taught every Saturday at Wellesley college and at the Harvard summer school.

Looking Up American Coal.

A report from Gothenberg says: The board of managers of the state railroads has, by reason of the critical state of the coal trade, turned its attention to the United States, and has, through the firm of Andersen & Lindberg, ordered a sample shipment, which possibly will be followed by other orders. The agreement stipulates the delivery of 4,600 tons of "Pocahontas" smokeless coal of the very finest quality, equal to the best South Wales steam coal from England. The entire sample shipment will arrive at Gothenburg in one steamer. The railroad managers are also negotiating for the purchase of American coal of lower grade. For instance, a quantity quoted 50 cents a ton less than for the coal already ordered. Ordinarily, English coal costs $5.50 per ton, c. i. f., (charges inclusive of freight), at Swedish ports; but the same quality can probably be obtained cheaper from America, provided the present difference in freight rates can be somewhat reduced.

THE REPORT OF A MAN OF EXPERIENCE.

What He Found in Western Canada to Induce Him to Settle There.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 20th, 1900.

To Whom it May Concern:—Especially to those who are desirous of obtaining health and wealth for themselves and families, I wish to state a few facts in regard to the Canadian North-west, where I went, leaving Sault Ste. Marie on May 2nd, 1899, for the purpose of seeking a better home for my family in the future. I got a special rate ticket for Ft. McLeod, Alberta. Through Manitoba and part of Assiniboia the farmers were busy employed ploughing and seeding. I found the farmers very kind and friendly, willing to talk and assist in giving me the particulars of the country. At McLeod I spent a few days looking over some ranchers' stock, which I was surprised to see looking so well; they were in better condition than any stock I ever saw in Michigan, even those that had been stabled, and most of these had never seen the inside of a shed or received any feed from the hands of man. But as I was also looking for mixed farm land I found McLeod no place for me, it is only fit for ranching purposes.

Retracing my way back to Winnipeg, I stopped off at Lethbridge, where I found some of the greatest horse ranches I ever had the pleasure of looking at. It is a fine level country, and lots of water and good grazing. At Medicine Hat, which is located in a valley, there were lots of sheep, cattle and horses in the surrounding country and all looking well.

On July 14th I went to Regina, there I began to see mixed farming lands in abundance, and the crops looking remarkably well, and as long as daylight lasted I saw the same all along the line and on the 15th day of July I arrived in Winnipeg, just in time for the exhibition. There I met with one of the most beautiful pictures of the world's records, for as soon as I entered the grounds my eyes met with all kinds of machinery, all in motion, and the cattle, grain and produce of the country was far beyond my expectation, in fact it was beyond any industrial exhibition or agricultural fair I ever visited and I have seen a good many.

From Regina to Prince Albert, a distance of 250 miles, it is all good for mixed farming, and well settled, with some thriving little towns. In some places the grain, just coming into head, would take a man to the waist, and the wild fruit along the line was good, rich and in great quantities, from Saskatoon on the south branch of the Saskatchewan river, to Prince Albert on the north branch of the same river, is one of the best farming districts without any doubt that ever laid face to the sun, and everything to be found there, that is necessary to make life comfortable, all that is required is labor. There is lots of wood, good water, and abundant hay land, and the climate is excellent.

Prince Albert is a flourishing little place, situated on the north Saskatchewan river, having a population of about 1,800, with good street and sidewalks and churches of nearly every denomination, three school houses, and another one to be built at once, also a brewery and a creamery. Here I stayed for about four months, working at my trade of bricklaying, and met with farmers and ranchers with whom I made it my special business to talk in regard to the prospects. I also visited several farmers for some distance out in the country while crops were in full bloom, and I may say that I never saw better crops in all my travels than I saw along the valley towards Stoney Creek and Carrot River. In the market garden there is grown currants, both red and black, and as fine a sample of roots and vegetables as ever went on a market. The soil in and around this district cannot be beaten for anything you may wish to grow, and besides the season is long, giving time for everything to mature. The cattle were looking as good as I saw anywhere, good pasture and hay land, and plenty of water wherever you go. The country is dotted all around like islands with timber fit for fuel and building purposes and within a day's walk of lumbering woods, where lumbering and tie making is carried on in winter. Both large and small game is plentiful. There are two good saw mills in this district, with a good supply of all grades of lumber all the year round and also two good brickyards with an excellent quality of brick. There is no scarcity of building material and at a reasonable price. Clothing and living are no higher than I find in Michigan, and furthermore I wish to say that there is a great demand for laboring men all the year round and good wages ranging from $1.75 to $2.00 per day, and from $25.00 to $35.00 per month with board.

I wish to say that I am perfectly satisfied with the country and I intend to return to Prince Albert early in the spring of 1900. Any reasonable man can go there and in from five to ten years make a good and comfortable home for himself and family, and if any person into whose hand this letter should fall, desires more information, please write to me and I will freely give them my best opinion. I am writing this for the benefit of those who may want to make a better home for themselves and families or friends.

Trusting that this statement may be useful to you in the publication of your next pamphlet and be the means of guiding at least some of those who are in search of a home, I remain

Your humble servant,
(Signed) WILLIAM PAYNE.

Mrs. Pinkham

The one thing that qualifies a person to give advice on any subject is experience — experience creates knowledge.

No other person has so wide an experience with female ills nor such a record of success as Mrs. Pinkham has had.

Over a hundred thousand cases come before her each year. Some personally, others by mail. And this has been going on for 20 years, day after day and day after day.

Twenty years of constant success — think of the knowledge thus gained! Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman with such an experience, especially when it is free.

If you are ill get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once—then write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Luck for a Leading Lady.

Helen Merrill, leading lady of the Tivola opera company, now singing here in "The Wizard of the Nile," has just received word from Australia that she has $15,000 in dividends from a mine in the Coolgardie district, for which she paid $500. When singing in Australia last year with the Hoyt & McKee company, she nursed some sick miners at Coolgardie. In return, the miners gave her a share in the mine, but she insisted on paying for it, and invested $500. The letter says she has the dividends named, and another letter offers her $40,000 for her interest.—New York Sun.

Jones Is Up a Peg.

The society reporter of a daily paper had been detailed to secure the names of prominent persons in attendance at a performance of grand opera.

"I beg pardon, madam," she said, approaching one of the occupants of a private box, "but will you oblige me by giving me your name?"

"Mrs. Archibald Jo Neeze," replied the lady.

"Pardon me," replied the reporter, "I did not quite catch the last name."

"Jo Neeze."

"May I ask how you spell it?"

"Certainly. J-o-n-e-s, Jo Neeze," haughtily answered the occupant of the box, and the reporter retired to the foyer to fan herself.—New York Times.
