WOMEN CRUCIFIED.

How Belgian Soldiers Are Said to Have Tortured Kongo Natives. A tremendous political scandal is imminent in Belgium, due to a chapter of horrors in the Kongo Free State.

Belgian brutality among these practically helpless blacks is not a new story, and the issue of the shocking state of affairs just revealed by a letter published in The New Gazette of Antwerp is rendered dubious from the fact that King Leopold, of unsavory reputation, is indirectly responsible. Nevertheless, for the sake of the good name of Belgium, it is believed that some action will have to be taken.

The story which has caused such agitation has to do with the murders and tortures committed by Belgians upon Kongo natives, who did not supply them with enough india rubber to satisfy their greed.

It is not recorded that any race of savages has been guilty of more wanton cruelty than these Belgians resorted to. And to add to the shame of the Belgians' position, they have been condemned out of the mouth of one of their own number, a certain M. Lacroix, who was an unwilling witness of the outrages.

Following is a portion of M. Lacroix's letter in The New Gazette:

"I am going to appear before a court of justice along with six other white men on the following charges:

"First.—Of having assassinated 150 men and of having cut off 60 hands.

"Second.—Of having crucified women and children and mutilated a number of men and hung their remains on the palisades.

"Third.—Of having killed a negro with revolver shots.

"Fourth.—Of having murdered a native."

The men indicted with Lacroix are MM. Matthys, Jacquien, Van Ryck, Moraix and Billois. Their case is to be heard before Major Michel, the special commissioner of the king, who has a reputation for being a severe judge.

Last November the M. Lacroix who has made the revelations was stationed at Monba, on the Kongo river. The Antwerp Society of Commerce of the Kongo was in a hurry for a fresh supply of india rubber. India rubber is a profitable commodity; it is what the society's representatives were in Africa to obtain and what the natives had been forced to supply. At this time the rubber stood ready for transportation, but the native canoes were delayed. This delay was likely to lessen the profits of the Antwerp society.

Therefore a certain director, whose name M. Lacroix withheld, became angry. The natives, he declared, must be taught not to interfere with the commercial projects of the Antwerp society. To enforce this he sent orders to Lacroix to massacre all the natives of the offending village.

A whole village to be slaughtered—not for "rebellion" nor for crime, not as revenge for any injury—simply to gratify a speculator's bad temper because Belgian commerce was ever so slightly interrupted!

The director's orders were carried out. Troops of Belgians descended without warning, fully armed. The natives were defenseless. Pitifully they begged for mercy—entreated that their women and children be spared. For what offense, they asked, was this summary slaughter inflicted? But the murderers did not listen. To them the natives were mere beasts, to be hacked in pieces whenever it seemed convenient to be mutilated and maimed when the white men should chance to be offended. With the callousness of the slaughter yard they cut in pieces every living creature in the little village, afterward heaving the bodies of the dead blacks. No discrimination was made between women and children. Twenty-two women and two children, M. Lacroix says, were killed. The fleetest footed women, who tried to escape, were pursued and slain. Three slipped into a canoe and paddled away, but were overtaken and thrown into the water, where they were killed by bullets.

Cold Steel or Death.

There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation, was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lane Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvelous power of Electric Bitters to cure Stomach and Liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Price 50c at P. M. Mark's drug store.

The Doctor's Answer.

What causes paleness and weakness? It is lack of iron in the blood and whenever iron is wanted in the system, weakness is always the result. Now to those who are pale, weak and languid, we say, try H. W. Barker's Iron Compound. It is the strongest and best iron preparation known to medical science. 50 cents at P. M. Mark.
