

WHEAT.

Today's prices are as follows:
 No 1 Hard..... 69 1/2c
 No 1 Northern..... 68 1/2c
 No 2 Northern..... 64 1/2c
 Flax..... $1.39

Remember the Grand Ball at Opera House Tonight.

Frank E. Dudley was over from Bemidji last Sunday.

Rediakers want their mail by way of Solway instead of from Bemidji.

J. V. Campbell, of Ada, is taking in the fair and visiting his son, J. E.

Call for the "General Alger," the finest 10 cent smoke on the market.

O. J. Kolseth, cashier of the First State Bank, spent Monday in Crookston.

A black handed parrot, left at Mrs. Foss on the 19th, can be recovered at this office.

A large number of Fosstonites will hear Wm. J. Bryan at Crookston tomorrow night.

People who burn the Lamp of Reason need Rocky Mountain Tea. Greatest reason producer known. 35c.—P. M. Mark.

Ole Erickson, of Bagley, spent Saturday evening here, returning home the following morning.

Hans Morberg was up from Crookston last Saturday looking after his farming interests in this vicinity.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Conference church will meet with Mrs. E. Ruud, Thursday, October 4th. Everybody welcome.

A new steam plow is in use over Hillsboro and is pronounced a success. It has nine 16-inch plows and can plow forty acres a day.

You can save $75 on board alone by attending the commercial College, Mankato, Minn. If interested, write the school for particulars.

The "Golden Belle" cigar. Take a can of 25 home for an after-supper smoke. Sold by all dealers.

Up north in Roseau county a school board secured the assistance of the law and had a man fined $10 for not sending a child of his to school.

No special train will run to Crookston tomorrow, or from there, but only single fare for the round trip will be charged for going Saturday and returning Sunday morning.

The four year old son of Even Syverson of Ulen got a coffee bean in his throat last week Monday, and was nearly strangled to death. He was relieved but died from the effects the following Wednesday.

For a good 5 cent smoke, the "County Tavern" is a favorite. Sold by all dealers.

N. J. Anderson, W. Tanner, John Yeoman, John Omland and others leave Sunday morning for Cass Lake. From here they will trail north in search of sine claims. They expect to be absent a week.

The Crookston fire department will hold their grand annual ball on Thursday evening, Oct. 11th. They are already making preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament that will be held in that city next summer.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expenses of the advertisement and wedding outfit was $11 and within a year the husband died, leaving a life insurance of $3,000. And still some people claim that it does not pay to advertise.

A hunter who had noticed a sign, "No hunting on these grounds," remarked after an hour's successful shooting that the man who posted the notice must be mistaken, as he never found a place where there were more chickens.

The four year old son of Even Syverson of Ulen got a coffee bean in his throat last week Monday, and was nearly strangled to death. He was relieved but died from the effects the following Wednesday.

For a good 5 cent smoke, the "County Tavern" is a favorite. Sold by all dealers.

N. J. Anderson, W. Tanner, John Yeoman, John Omland and others leave Sunday morning for Cass Lake. From here they will trail north in search of sine claims. They expect to be absent a week.

The Crookston fire department will hold their grand annual ball on Thursday evening, Oct. 11th. They are already making preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament that will be held in that city next summer.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expenses of the advertisement and wedding outfit was $11 and within a year the husband died, leaving a life insurance of $3,000. And still some people claim that it does not pay to advertise.

A hunter who had noticed a sign, "No hunting on these grounds," remarked after an hour's successful shooting that the man who posted the notice must be mistaken, as he never found a place where there were more chickens.

The four year old son of Even Syverson of Ulen got a coffee bean in his throat last week Monday, and was nearly strangled to death. He was relieved but died from the effects the following Wednesday.

For a good 5 cent smoke, the "County Tavern" is a favorite. Sold by all dealers.

N. J. Anderson, W. Tanner, John Yeoman, John Omland and others leave Sunday morning for Cass Lake. From here they will trail north in search of sine claims. They expect to be absent a week.

The Crookston fire department will hold their grand annual ball on Thursday evening, Oct. 11th. They are already making preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament that will be held in that city next summer.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expenses of the advertisement and wedding outfit was $11 and within a year the husband died, leaving a life insurance of $3,000. And still some people claim that it does not pay to advertise.

A hunter who had noticed a sign, "No hunting on these grounds," remarked after an hour's successful shooting that the man who posted the notice must be mistaken, as he never found a place where there were more chickens.

The four year old son of Even Syverson of Ulen got a coffee bean in his throat last week Monday, and was nearly strangled to death. He was relieved but died from the effects the following Wednesday.

For a good 5 cent smoke, the "County Tavern" is a favorite. Sold by all dealers.

N. J. Anderson, W. Tanner, John Yeoman, John Omland and others leave Sunday morning for Cass Lake. From here they will trail north in search of sine claims. They expect to be absent a week.

The Crookston fire department will hold their grand annual ball on Thursday evening, Oct. 11th. They are already making preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament that will be held in that city next summer.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expenses of the advertisement and wedding outfit was $11 and within a year the husband died, leaving a life insurance of $3,000. And still some people claim that it does not pay to advertise.

A hunter who had noticed a sign, "No hunting on these grounds," remarked after an hour's successful shooting that the man who posted the notice must be mistaken, as he never found a place where there were more chickens.

The four year old son of Even Syverson of Ulen got a coffee bean in his throat last week Monday, and was nearly strangled to death. He was relieved but died from the effects the following Wednesday.

For a good 5 cent smoke, the "County Tavern" is a favorite. Sold by all dealers.

N. J. Anderson, W. Tanner, John Yeoman, John Omland and others leave Sunday morning for Cass Lake. From here they will trail north in search of sine claims. They expect to be absent a week.

The Crookston fire department will hold their grand annual ball on Thursday evening, Oct. 11th. They are already making preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament that will be held in that city next summer.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expenses of the advertisement and wedding outfit was $11 and within a year the husband died, leaving a life insurance of $3,000. And still some people claim that it does not pay to advertise.

A hunter who had noticed a sign, "No hunting on these grounds," remarked after an hour's successful shooting that the man who posted the notice must be mistaken, as he never found a place where there were more chickens.

The four year old son of Even Syverson of Ulen got a coffee bean in his throat last week Monday, and was nearly strangled to death. He was relieved but died from the effects the following Wednesday.

For a good 5 cent smoke, the "County Tavern" is a favorite. Sold by all dealers.

N. J. Anderson, W. Tanner, John Yeoman, John Omland and others leave Sunday morning for Cass Lake. From here they will trail north in search of sine claims. They expect to be absent a week.

The Crookston fire department will hold their grand annual ball on Thursday evening, Oct. 11th. They are already making preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament that will be held in that city next summer.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expenses of the advertisement and wedding outfit was $11 and within a year the husband died, leaving a life insurance of $3,000. And still some people claim that it does not pay to advertise.

A hunter who had noticed a sign, "No hunting on these grounds," remarked after an hour's successful shooting that the man who posted the notice must be mistaken, as he never found a place where there were more chickens.

The four year old son of Even Syverson of Ulen got a coffee bean in his throat last week Monday, and was nearly strangled to death. He was relieved but died from the effects the following Wednesday.

For a good 5 cent smoke, the "County Tavern" is a favorite. Sold by all dealers.

N. J. Anderson, W. Tanner, John Yeoman, John Omland and others leave Sunday morning for Cass Lake. From here they will trail north in search of sine claims. They expect to be absent a week.

The Crookston fire department will hold their grand annual ball on Thursday evening, Oct. 11th. They are already making preparations for the State Firemen's Tournament that will be held in that city next summer.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expenses of the advertisement and wedding outfit was $11 and within a year the husband died, leaving a life insurance of $3,000. And still some people claim that it does not pay to advertise.

A hunter who had noticed a sign, "No hunting on these grounds," remarked after an hour's successful shooting that the man who posted the notice must be mistaken, as he never found a place where there were more chickens.

PUBLIC SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Possumus Quia Posse Videmur.
 MAGNUS RUUD, Editor.

Twenty-two new books were added to our general library this week. This raises the number of volumes to 536. Constant inquiries still come for the old books that are in process of rebinding.

Our registration has now passed the 250 mark, several new pupils having entered the past week. Next week we will give a full month's report of the different rooms.

The Fosston public school has received 171 state certificates during its history.

Quotations from English and American authors are being recited by the assembly room pupils. They contain precepts and sentiments which, if conformed to, would make the world better and brighter.

The tenth grade are reading Macaulay's Essay on Addison and Milton and the ninth grade, Evangeline, by Longfellow.

Martin Roud returned to school Monday after a week's illness.

Aleda Hershberger is our next editor.

John and Arthur Tyndall entered school last Monday.

A case of books arrived last Monday packed in a Duke's Mixture tobacco box. Anyone visiting school would think we were importing the weed for practical demonstrations of its effect upon the body, for the benefit of the zoology class.

A modern history class has been started this week, consisting of John and Arthur Tyndall.

The tenth grade start Censar next week.

A large number of report cards have been completed by THE THIRTEEN TOWN force and will be put into use immediately.

The school campus is the feeding ground of large flocks of ducks, turkeys and chickens. A few weeks ago one came into the hall, nearly to the library, while the tenth grade were reciting Latin.

The junior janitor could make a living teaching his language to zalous third and fourth graders. Some of them have acquired a smattering thereof, of which "vlist du raffin" is an especially well known phrase.

This will be a high school in a very short time. Then we'll be in it—just watch our smoke.

J. Adam Bede was a caller at school and gave us a lecture on perseverance. The next day Congressman Eddy gave us a short visit.

The books received last Tuesday are mostly reference books. They will be a valuable addition to our already large reference library.

Two Accounts of Adam Bede's Address—Written as a School Exercise.

The Fosston Public Schools were visited last week by the Hon. J. Adam Bede. After being shown through the different rooms he was escorted into the assembly room by Mr. B. S. Bennett.

Prof. Yeager then introduced him to the school and said Mr. Bede had kindly consented to speak to us for a few minutes. He made many humorous remarks which were given us as illustrations of his sayings. These kept the school for the most part in a fit of laughter. Mr. Bede was unable to give a political speech for as he said young folks were not liable to be as interested in such affairs as older ones.

Aleda Hershberger.

J. Adam Bede, a political speaker, addressed the school last Thursday afternoon. He is an able speaker and gave a good speech. He spoke to us of a number of things, one of them being perseverance. He told us that one small comma can make a great difference in the meaning of a sentence, and gave one incident showing it. He told how the natives of some islands of the Pacific kill whales, by throwing a great many small javelins into them. On talking of perseverance, he said, that to persevere is to conquer, people who persevere are sure to succeed but those who do not will not succeed.

Kent Lohn.

A Beggar's Newspaper.

The 8000 professional beggars of Paris have several newspapers, printed and published for their special benefit. One of these odd dailies is called the "Bom Guide". It gives a complete list of the baptisms weddings and funerals to take place on that day, so that the readers may be posted as to the best place to pursue their calling. For begging-letter writers there is a list of the addresses, arrivals and departures of persons of known charitable disposition. The paper is a mine of information to its readers. Its advertisements are peculiar to the business and read somewhat as follows: Wanted, a blind man to play the flute", or wanted, for a fashionable watering place, a one-armed man; good references; security required."

Beggars are generally poorly nourished in body. If they were not so, people would not be apt to give. It is safe to say that none of the Paris beggars drink Golden "Grain Belt" beer. People who use it are at once improved and built up in health. These beers, brewed by the Minneapolis Brewing Company, are a pure malt food product, made particularly with a view to developing their food value. A case of pints or quarts of "Extra Pale" or "Gilt Edge", will be delivered at your door. Order from your dealer, or Alexander Thompson, Crookston.

No Right To Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Fleetric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50 cents at P. M. Mark's drug store.

Special Service.

Rev. A. M. Larson will conduct services in the Free Mission house, Fosston, on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 30, at 3 o'clock. It will be his last meeting in Fosston and all Scandinavians are cordially invited to attend.

A Bryan Club.

At a meeting of the faithful held at the Fosston House, the Fosston Bryan Club was organized and the following officers elected last Wednesday night: President—S. N. Sorenson. Vice president—K. Nora. Secretary—J. A. Hendricks. Treasurer—J. A. Johnsrud.

The club meets tonight at W. E. Black's office and will go to Crookston to listen to W. J. Bryan, who speaks there tomorrow evening.

Telephone No. 17

For a Dray.

When you want to engage a dray for any purpose, just telephone No. 17 for Nicolai's dray. Prompt and efficient service and charges reasonable. Save yourself steps and time by using the telephone.

ROSEBUD.

Jack frost was not a very welcome visitor.

Misses Kate and Libbey Flesch are home on a visit.

Mrs. E. H. Noel was down and staid over night with her daughter, Mrs. F. Luchou.

Mrs. F. Doud of Bemidji is visiting her son, L. R. Fishbeck.

The threshing machines are putting in good time this nice weather.

H. W. Barker's Iron Compound. Nature's remedy. Makes weak people strong. 50c. at P. M. Mark's.

Strayed Sheep.

Strayed from my premises, Sec. 3, town of Sletten, eight heard of sheep. One black, and seven white with some black on head and feet. Three of them wore bells. Finder will be rewarded upon returning them to owner, or notifying him of their whereabouts.

SEVER SHEFFAS. Sec. 3, Town of Sletten.

Fosston P. O.

Sweet Potato Croquettes.

Bake the sweet potatoes until they are tender; then scoop out the centres and put them through a vegetable press. To each two cups of mashed potatoes allow a tablespoonful of butter, a level teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar and a half teaspoonful of white pepper; mix thoroughly. Form into cylinders, dip in egg, then in bread-crumbs and fry in smoking-hot fat.—October Ladies Home Journal.

October Ladies Home Journal.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Stop the Cough and Works Off the Gold

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word. Take the word field, a square divided into sections or lots. When the word man is written by the word field the combination makes the word farmer, indicating the avocation of a man who is associated with fields and agriculture. Still more suggestive is the Chinese word for truth, sincerity, faithfulness, honesty. It is formed by the combination of a man and word, thus expressing that one form of honesty consists in a man standing by his word. The word for box is indicated by a square having four sides of equal length, while a prisoner is literally a man in a box, a fact which is often gressomely illustrated in China when a criminal is sentenced to death, and is carried to the place of execution in a square box.—Frederic Poole, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Every word in the Chinese language has a logical reason for its existence and peculiar formation, and each word consists of either one individual character or a number of them combined in order to make a complete word