The little child of Mr. and Mrs. B. Yany of Delano was passing through the yard at their home, when one of the cows ran after it. The mother, seeing the danger of the child, ran to its assistance, when the animal attacked her, knocking her down and tearing her in the abdomen in a frightful manner. One horn entered the stomach and tore it open, also tearing the intestines and severing three arteries. The husband finally drove the infuriated beast away, and, with assistance, carried the unfortunate woman into the house. Recovery is impossible.

MINNESOTA MINES.

Require Nearly a Thousand More Men Than Last Year.

A sheet of statistics which has just been completed in the office of the state labor commissioner shows that mining in Minnesota is becoming a very prominent industry. Nearly a thousand more miners are employed than a year ago, and the acreage is largely increased. The mines now in operation on the ranges in the northern part of the state cover an aggregate of 6,475 acres.

The number of miners employed in the state is 7,586. A year ago there were 6,645, an increase during the year of 941, which, in view of the fact that mining is comparatively a restricted employment in the state, indicates a considerable growth in the industry. Fifty-six mines are now in operation. All but three of these have been opened in the past nine years. The average daily wage which employes in these mines receive is $2.07 this year. Last year it was but $1.89.

An interesting fact is brought to light in figures which show that the State of Minnesota is the owner of as much mining land and mines as any other individual holder. The value of this item of state property is enormous, though it is not computed in figures on the records since the state's mines and mining lands are without exception leased out, and there is no occasion for a valuation, because no taxes, but royalties, are collected.

Minnesota's mining properties are located on about 12,000 acres of school lands that are leased under differing forms of contract to private parties. For every ton of ore mined the state receives a royalty of 25 cents. On certain lands which are non-producers, leased for development purposes, the state requires the same annual payment as if they were producing 5,000 tons under each contract. An exception is made, however, for the period previous to the removal of the first 1,000 tons, during which the state exacts $100 a year. This does not hold thereafter. A license to prospect on state lands is granted for one year for the sum of $25.

The state owns the Minnewas mine, forty acres of the Lake Superior Consolidated mine, and one of the Biwabik properties. The most productive property is that operated by the Oliver Mining company on section 8, township 58, range 17, opened in 1893. During 1898 349,100 tons were shipped from it. The royalty paid the state on this account was $174,550. No shipments were made in 1899, but during the present year the state has received a considerable amount in royalty.

TEACHERS' CERTIFICATES.

Papers Show Much Improvement Over Those Submitted Last Year.

The department of public instruction has issued 2,655 teachers' certificates as a result of the August examinations. In comparison with the examination in August a year ago, the papers show considerable improvement in scholarship. The total cost of conducting the examination, met by the state, was $1,796.55. During its progress 31,354 papers were examined by the markers. The examination was held at the close of the summer sessions in the teachers' institutes and state summer schools. The applicants were those who wished to qualify for first and second grade teachers' certificates. Each applicant for second grade standing submitted papers on nine different subjects, and those who sought to qualify for first grade teachers submitted papers in sixteen subjects. The number who took the examination was 4,500, of whom 2,030 had not previously applied for certificates. Five hundred and seven had previously applied for certificates. While the markers were examining the papers it was discovered that a number of persons under seventeen years old and not eligible for certificates, had taken the examination.

BAD FOR CHEESE INDUSTRY.

Creameries Use All the Milk—Report of the State Dairy and Food Commission.

A special report on the cheese industry in Minnesota, issued by the dairy and food commission, states that Minnesota can never be a great cheese producing state so long as the price of beef remains at the present figure. The increase in the number of cheese factories in the state commented on as being inadequate to meet the growing consumption of the product at home.

A. J. Glover, the commission's cheese expert, bases his conclusions upon a recent investigation during which he visited each of the fifty factories in the state. He finds that cows bring better prices for beef than for dairy stock. Where creameries are numerous they take all the available milk product in the territory tributary to them. In some cases even the creameries are pushed to obtain enough milk. These conditions limit the field of cheese factories. The opinion is advanced that there is still opportunity to extend the cheese business by operating factories in localities where the milk supply is insufficient for a creamery.

The report calls attention to the unequal competition which Minnesota factories are forced to meet in the shipments of poor cheese from neighboring states, sold here as home product.

Big Oil Engine.

In the shops of the Southern Pacific railway, at Ogden, Utah, there was installed last week, a thirty-six horsepower Diesel motor, by means of which it is expected to supply power for a machine shop through the use of crude California petroleum. As the use of this type of motor in the West is novel, much interest is being excited by the trial, for the oil fields of California provide much reason for desiring its success. The Diesel motor is essentially a gasoline engine, adapted to use crude petroleum or other oils direct. It operates on the four-stroke, or Otto, cycle, but differs from other internal combustion motors in compressing a full charge of air to a point above the igniting point of the fuel, then injecting this fuel for a certain period into this red-hot air, where it burns with limits of pressure and temperature under perfect control. There are no explosions but steady combustion at a predetermined much lower temperature and without essential increase in pressure, the combustion line being practically an isothermal.

All After Mr. Rockefeller.

Dr. Harper, of the University of Chicago, has British rivals in his designs on John D. Rockefeller's millions. At the time of Mr. Rockefeller's visited London, in July, his presence at the Savoy hotel had not been chronicled more than twenty-four hours before hundreds of letters began to arrive for him. His secretary opened only enough to observe that every mendicant and institution in the empire was possessed of a desire to make the acquaintance of the Rockefeller munificence. The applications ranged from requests for a ton of coal to petitions for the endowment of colleges and orphan asylums, and they are still coming. Mr. Rockefeller will return to London late in the fall. There awaits him at the Savoy a bundle of letters nearly two feet square.—Correspondence St. Paul Dispatch.

WOMAN'S KIDNEY TROUBLES

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing this Fatal Woman's Disease.

Of all the diseases known with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

The following letters will show how marvellously successful it is:

Aug. 6, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am failing very fast,—since January have lost thirty-five or forty pounds. I have a yellow, muddy complexion, feel tired, and have bearing down pains. Menses have not appeared for three months; sometimes I am troubled with a white discharge, and I also have kidney and bladder trouble. . . I have been this way for a long time, and feel so miserable I thought I would write to you, and see if you could do me any good."—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio.

Sept. 10, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound according to directions, and can say I have not felt so well for years as I do at present. Before taking your medicine a more miserable person you never saw. I could not eat or sleep, and did not care to talk with any one. I did not enjoy life at all. Now, I feel so well I cannot be grateful enough for what you have done for me. You are surely a woman's friend. Thanking you a thousand times, I remain,

Ever yours
MISS EDNA FREDERICK,
Troy, Ohio.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it enough. I had headaches, leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, and kidney trouble. I also had a pain when standing or walking, and sometimes there seemed to be balls of fire in front of me, so that I could not see for about twenty minutes. Felt as tired in the morning when I got up as if I had had no sleep for two weeks. Had fainting spells, was down-hearted, and would cry."—MRS. BERTHA OFER, Second and Clayton Sts., Chester Pa.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot find language to express the terrible suffering I have had to endure. I had female trouble, also liver, stomach, kidney, and bladder trouble. . . . I tried several doctors, also quite a number of patent medicines, and had despaired of ever getting well. At last I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, thanks to your medicine, I am a well woman. I can not praise your medicine too highly for I know it will do all, and even more, than it is recommended to do. I tell every suffering woman about your Vegetable Compound, and urge them to try it and see for themselves what it will do."—MRS. MARY A. HIPLE, No. Manchester, Ind.
