

Medicare Covers Physical Therapy

Your physical health is one of the most important aspects of your life as you grow wiser and the benefits of physical therapy for senior adults has been well documented. Physical therapists specialize in the evaluation and treatment of a wide variety of musculoskeletal and neurological conditions.

Physical therapists can tailor specific exercises based on individual needs to help improve areas which may be weaker or not moving as well, causing unwanted stress on other areas of the body.

For some individuals, aging may include dealing with joint pain or arthritis. Physical therapy may aid in avoiding a surgery or improving function if a surgery such as a joint replacement is needed. Exercise has been shown to be the most effective intervention for the treatment of arthritis.

The fear of falling is another major reason for individuals to seek out physical therapy services. Falling can lead to very serious injuries, hospitalization and have mortal consequences. It is often a difficult, even embarrassing, realization for many that they do not possess the balance and coordination that they had earlier in life. Poor leg strength is often a factor in falling and can be improved through prescribed exercises.

What most seniors don't know is that with their Medicare insurance plan is they can go to see a physical therapist for a free evaluation without a referral from a doctor's office.

Legislation in Kentucky provides individuals with the opportunity for direct access to physical therapists in order to save time and money on the part of the patient and provider.
