Eagle Scout service project completed at Visitor Center

Special to The Clinton Courier

The Clinton Visitor Center is the beneficiary of a church-pew style bench constructed by Eagle Scout candidate Isaac Martinolich for his Eagle Scout Service project. The labor for the construction was provided by some of the scouts and scout leaders with Boys Scouts of America, Troop 88, of First United Methodist Church in Clinton. The project gave Martinolich the opportunity to lead both adults and youth in the building of the bench. Home Depot donated some of the materials. The bench project took about one hundred twenty man-hours to complete. The red oak bench is displayed off the back porch in the medallion circle pavers area of the Visitor Center for everyone to enjoy. Service to others is an important part of the Scout oath, "to help other people at all times." The Clinton Visitor Center has been the beneficiary of many Boy Scouts of America and Girls Scouts of America service projects over the years. Pictured (l to r) are, front row: Alec Evans, Isaac Martinolich, Matthew Weiss, Levi Tripp and Ryan Callegan; and back row: Marsha Barham, Chuck Weiss, Stephen Martinolich, Chris Callegan and Noah Martinolich.
