First responders' new facility

The multi-use training facility, upon completion, will be a game-changer for the City of Clinton's police and fire departments, say City leaders. Camp Down Range will see long-term benefits by incorporating these resources into their challenging courses and camps.

Chief Blackledge sees the training facility as a benefit to not only first responders, but to the community as a whole through the education programs of the Fire Department. In recent weeks, CFD has welcomed almost three hundred children per week to the various fire stations for fire safety training.

Blackledge explained his plans for the facility, "along with the Conex city, the Fire Department hopes to be able to teach children how to exit safely from a smoky atmosphere. The Conex city will be set up like a house, school classroom and possibly storefronts. This will make the training more lifelike."

Additionally, the training tower will offer many opportunities to train, including rappelling, confined space rescue and high angle rescue.

"This is a great opportunity for the police and fire departments to train together and learn from each other and help each other out in times of need," Blackledge added.

The project was made possible through funding from donors, including both monetary and in-kind donations of services and labor.

Clinton to save thousands with LED streetlight replacements lights in the city, the City will benefit from a significantly lowered utility bill that can reach over $55,000 per month. Some estimates point to savings of upwards of sixty percent in energy costs to the City. LED swaps at Traceway and Brighton parks will result in yearly savings of over $3,500 alone.

The changes transform the street lighting from the older technology of high pressure sodium vapor that emits an orange glow to the newer LED lights that have a whiter emission and use less energy to provide a clearer lighting experience. LEDs are also brighter than traditional HPS bulbs and provide an enhanced level of safety for pedestrians and motorists.

Each fixture costs the City a one-time swap-out fee of approximately $32 per light but results in a savings of up to $4.59 per light each month. This means that the City gets back the initial $32 investment in just over seven months. With several thousand street lights in the city, the City will benefit from a significantly lowered utility bill that can reach over $55,000 per month. Some estimates point to savings of upwards of sixty percent in energy costs to the City. LED swaps at Traceway and Brighton parks will result in yearly savings of over $3,500 alone.
