

Best Lawyer: Beau Pemberton

Beau Pemberton is the county's best attorney for the second year in a row, according to readers of The Weakley County Press.

"I'm truly humbled to be chosen as the Best Attorney for Weakley County for the second year in a row. To say that I was surprised when I was notified about this honor is an understatement. I'm truly thankful to be able to practice law and serve the citizens of Weakley County and West Tennessee," Pemberton said.

"It is because of my clients that I have the privilege to earn a living as an attorney, and the credit for this award belongs to my clients that I serve daily. Without you, the practice of law is not possible. I am deeply appreciative of this honor by the readers and appreciate the vote of confidence through this award.

"I also want to recognize the support staff in my office: Amy Bynum, Tiffany Owens, and Sarah Michelle Davis. They are invaluable to my practice and assist me everyday in assisting our clients with their legal needs. For their work, I am deeply appreciative.

"My family is my cornerstone, and my wife, Stacey, and my daughters, Sarah and Shelby, deserve credit for this award as well. I'm usually on call around the clock, and my family is supportive of my work that takes many hours of my time as I help other families with their situations. Without the support and love of my family, I would not feel right in accepting this recognition.

"One final thought to everyone: If you have a legal question or need legal assistance, remember: If you don't know, call Beau."

Best Convenience Store: 3J's

It's clear that 3J's Food Mart rises above the competition in satisfying busy customers, according to the readers of the Weakley County Press.

For the 11th consecutive year, the Menees family store has earned a vote of confidence from readers of The Press as the Best Convenience Store in Weakley County.

The store is located on Elm Street in Martin and offers a full line of typical items such as sodas and snacks that appeal to customers. But the store goes beyond typical because it also offers Rolling Smoke BBQ.

The barbecue is fresh because Jason Menees prepares it every day: ribs, pulled pork, barbecued bologna, beef brisket, whole chickens and more. Family packs for barbecue are also available. In addition, 3J's also serves up a wide selection of hot food items such as Godfather's Pizza, fried chicken, potato munchies, pizza snacks and burger varieties.

In business for over 27 years, 3J's Food Mart in Martin is owned by Jim and Glenda Menees. The entire family is involved in the business, and even more, they are involved in the community, supporting causes and events.

3J's offers easy access to its multiple fuel pumps and plenty of parking during its constantly busy times throughout the day.

Combine those traits with efficient and friendly customer service and community dedication and you have a number one business ... at least that is how Weakley County Press readers feel.
