and Lodge at Loma Linda. Baker Bucks is on a 3,200 acre ranch. On the ranch is a 340 acre preserve and a 380 acre preserve that offers the best whitetail hunting around. If you enjoy fishing as much as hunting, we have several fully stocked ponds that are great for middle of the day fishing. The lodge was originally built to accommodate hunters during their stay with the whitetail hunting business. The lodge is in such an idyllic setting, the Bakers decided to offer it for vacation and wedding lodging as well. The barn was remodeled to offer a premier barn wedding venue in our area. In the Fall 2014, the lodge was the opening of both the whitetail hunting business and wedding/event business, the Lodge at Loma Linda. Features of the property include: The Lodge, The Wedding Barn, Bunkhouse, 100-acre lake for fishing and water sports, 750 acres of high-fenced whitetail hunting preserve, fully stocked pond beside lodge, guided fishing on 75 additional ponds, and beautiful scenery for photo shoots.  In 2015, the median household income in Ellington, MO was $28,875, a 4.32-percent growth from the previous year.  From 2014 to 2015, employment in Ellington, Mo., grew at a rate of 5.19 percent.  Of those living in Ellington, 5.3 percent have graduated from college and 1.6 percent have completed a postgraduate degree program.

REYNOLDS COUNTY LIBRARY was first established in 1949. In July 1968, Reynolds County Library joined Carter and Ripley County becoming a Tri-County Library. After being in the Tri-County system for 19 years Reynolds County branched out on their own and became the Reynolds County Library District. The Reynolds County Library District is a tax supported public library. The district's five-member board is appointed by the Reynolds County Commissioners. The library has five branches, one of which is in Ellington. The library is located at 130 South Main Street.
