

Sign up now for Haunted Half

COOKEVILLE – Registration is open for WCTE's 10th Annual Haunted Half Marathon, which is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 20 at 7 a.m. and is the final race in this year's Run the Cumberland Medal Series. Runners must be at least 14 years of age and are encouraged to dress up for this Halloween themed event, with all proceeds benefiting WCTE-Upper Cumberland PBS.

The Haunted Half traditionally attracts more than 400 runners from Middle Tennessee and across the country and is a certified course that is chip-timed by Tennessee Race Timing. Race director Tracy Epps has seen the race grow into a favorite in the region over the years.

"The Haunted Half Marathon has been part of our community for 10 years now," said Epps. "It gives runners the chance to challenge themselves with this longer distance, and to do it right here at home with their friends and family to support them."

Runners who complete the marathon will receive a haunted-themed finisher's medal, and pre-registrants are guaranteed a performance shirt. Runners who completed the Run the Cumberland Race Series will also receive their Run the Cumberland Medal, and the runner with the best Halloween costume will also win a prize.

Runners who are 21 and older can receive a discounted VIP or general admission ticket for WCTE's Blues and Brews Craft Beer Festival, held the same day in Dogwood Park from noon until 5:00 p.m. VIP tickets include catered food throughout the day and a beer tasting from more than 70 craft beers on tap.

To register online visit runhaunted-half.com or wcte.org.

If you prefer to pay by check, visit WCTE's downtown office at 229 E. Broad St.

The Owls answered the Tiger volley with John Ross Ford finding the endzone for the second time with a 15-yard run making it 35-21.

Things began to go wrong for the Tigers at that point as a stalled drive led to an errant snap that gave the Owls the ball on the Tiger eight. Running back Apple Gibbs immediately made them pay with an eight-yard dash making the score 41-21.

Tiger running back David Bradford made it a bit tighter as the third quarter neared an end, scoring from four yards to make it 41-28. However, Eli Martin scored his third touchdown of the night, galloping 45 yards to put the game to bed. Bradford would haul in a five-yard pass from Aldino for window dressing to put the final score at 47-24.

"Had just four plays gone differently, we may have had a much different outcome," Coach Trapp said of the bad snap deep in Tiger territory and the run back of the second half kickoff by the Tigers. "We figure if we can score 21 points, we should win most games. We did more than that but there were too many mistakes on defense and special teams for us to pick up the victory.

The Tigers fell to 2-6 with the loss. They will travel to Macon County for a key district match up this Friday with kickoff at 7 p.m.
