

Woodard given probation for credit card fraud

DUANE SHERRILL
Editor Smithville Review
Smithville, Tennessee

A woman who went on a spending spree with someone else's credit card, even making a bail bond, has been granted probation but has been ordered to pay back the money.

The woman, Robin Lynn Woodard, 33, of Gordonsville entered guilty pleas in circuit court to charges of theft and fraudulent use of a credit card. She was given a total of three years but she will be allowed to be free on probation during her term. She will be required to make restitution of $4,430 to one of her victims in the case of a residential burglary and $1,509 to the other victim for using their credit card. She was directed to serve 30 days on a separate count of simple possession of methamphetamine.

WOODARD

According to Sheriff Patrick Ray, Woodard used a credit card that did not belong to her to purchase air time on a phone card on several occasions last October and then used it to buy items from PayPal. The sheriff said she even used it to pay a bail bonding agency, spending $100 with Grumpy's Bail Bonds. The second case Woodard was sentenced on concerned her breaking into a residence and taking numerous items including guns, a cross bow, camera, television, quilts, sheets and video game.

Serving Middle Tennessee!

Vote Tom Chandler

DeKalb County Commissioner District 1

I am a Mason and a member of the Scottish Rite and the Tennessee Cattlemen's Association. Laura and I are members of the Order of the Eastern Star. Laura is a retired school teacher, treasurer of the FCE of Alexandria and is active in the Red Hat Sassy Belles of Alexandria.

I want to apply my 30+ years of professional experience in budgeting, business development, creating jobs and implementing large projects, while controlling costs, for the direct benefit of District 1 and DeKalb County.

A vote for me will be a vote to give District 1 (Alexandria, Temperance Hall and Edgar Evins) the strong representation it should have on the DeKalb County Commission.

Early Voting July 13-28; Election Day August 2

Thank you for your vote!
