

Kanne seeks District 12 County Commissioner seat

Let me introduce myself, I am Lisa Kanne. Why do I want to run for Warren County Commissioner District 12? That is a reasonable question.

Tragedy struck my family in Warren County. You, McMinnvillans, came from all over to say "What can we do to help?" I was touched and blessed by the outpouring by you. As a result, I am inspired to give back to this community by running for Warren County Commissioner for District 12. If elected I will give 25 percent of my Warren County Commissioner pay back to the community. I care!

Humbly supporting those around me goes back to my core values of God, country and volunteering. I learned these values in 10 years of Girl Scouts. It comes through as I assist with food banks in the area. I believe one can always give back to the community. When I finally moved here in 2013, I started to volunteer through the Civil Air Patrol. They have a program called STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) which encourages young people to learn.

Through the STEM program we worked with Cyber Patriot doing country wide completion. The cadets finished second in the state.

While in the Civil Air patrol we conducted sorties to find missing planes, laid flags on veterans' graves, and marched in parades. We also went to Oakbrook to see the handling of the nuclear element and maneuvered robots.

My education and experience has taken me down a unique path which started with a bachelor of science from Eastern Michigan University. I have also received a master of divinity and a doctorate from Liberty University. I worked two jobs while going to college. I honored my parents by completing my doctorate degree. I trained as a hospital chaplain.

KANNE

While working over twenty years in the aerospace industry I saw what projects worked in other communities and what could be done in Warren County.

My platform is making Warren County a sought-out place to work and live. Warren County is the nursery capital of the world, and we can do more to promote its beauty. I would fight for an overpass over Highway 55 so people walking can safely visit the stores on the other side of Highway 55. Plus, I will work to lower the wheel tax.

I humbly ask for your vote for Warren County Commissioner for District 12.

'America's pastor' dies at 99

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. Billy Graham, who transformed American religious life through his preaching and activism, becoming a counselor to presidents and the most widely heard Christian evangelist in history, died Wednesday. He was 99.

Graham, who long suffered from cancer, pneumonia and other ailments, died at his home in North Carolina, spokesman Mark DeMoss told The Associated Press.

Billy Graham reached untold millions while spreading the word of God.

an evangelist began taking shape at age 16, when the Presbyterian-reared farm-boy committed himself to Christ at a local tent revival.

Graham, who became a Southern Baptist, went on to study at Wheaton College, a prominent Christian liberal arts school in Illinois, where he met fellow student Ruth Bell, who had been raised in China where her father had been a Presbyterian medical missionary.

His massive crusades in England and New York catapulted him to international celebrity. His 12-week London campaign in 1954 defied expectations, drawing more than 2 million people and the respect of the British, many of whom had derided him before his arrival as little more than a slick salesman. Three years later, he held a crusade in New York's Madison Square Garden that was so popular it was extended from six to 16 weeks, capped off with a rally in Times Square that packed Broadway with more than 100,000 people.

As America's most famous religious leader, he golfed with statesmen and entertainers and dined with royalty. Graham's relationships with U.S. presidents also boosted his ministry and became a source of pride for conservative Christians who were so often caricatured as backward.

Graham's integrity was credited with salvaging the reputation of broadcast evangelism in the dark days of the late 1980s, after scandals befell TV preachers Jimmy Swaggart and Jim Bakker.

He resolved early on never to be alone with a woman other than his wife. Instead of taking a share of the "love offerings" at his crusades, as was the custom, he earned a modest salary from the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

Graham's leadership summits and crusades in more than 185 countries and territories forged powerful global links among conservative Christians. Dubbed "America's pastor," he was a confidant to U.S. presidents from Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to George W. Bush.

In 1983, President Reagan gave Graham the Presidential Medal of Freedom, America's highest civilian honor. When the Billy Graham Museum and Library was dedicated in 2007 in Charlotte, former Presidents George H.W. Bush, Jimmy Carter and Bill Clinton attended.

Beyond Graham's public appearances, he reached untold millions through his pioneering use of prime-time telecasts, network radio, daily newspaper columns, evangelistic feature films and globe-girdling satellite TV hookups. Graham's message was not complex or unique, yet he preached with a conviction that won over audiences worldwide.

"The Bible says," was his catch phrase. His unquestioning belief in Scripture turned the Gospel into a "rapier" in his hands, he said.

By his final crusade in 2005 in New York City, he had preached in person to more than 210 million people worldwide. No evangelist is expected to have his level of influence again.

"William Franklin Graham Jr. can safely be regarded as the best who ever lived at what he did," said William Martin, author of the Graham biography "A Prophet With Honor."

Born Nov. 7, 1918, on his family's dairy farm near Charlotte, N.C., Graham came from a fundamentalist background that expected true Bible-believers to stay clear of Christians with even the most minor differences over Scripture. But as his crusades drew support from a widening array of Christian churches, he came to reject that view.

His approach helped evangelicals gain the influence they have today. Graham's path to becoming
