

Photo provided
Lindsay Kaitlin Wilcher became the bride of Michael Allen Mooneyhan in a ceremony held at Dayspring Community Church.

Wilcher, Mooneyhan unite in marriage

Wedding nuptials of Lindsay Kaitlin Wilcher and Michael Allen Mooneyhan were held Dec. 30 at Dayspring Community Church. The 1 p.m. ceremony was conducted by Rex Boles.

The bride is the daughter of Blaine and Lorie Wilcher, and the granddaughter of G.L. and Margaret Wilcher, and Lee and Pam Pack.

Mr. Mooneyhan is the son of Kristi Frazier, and the grandson of Lois Lemay, and Dallas and Sharon Frazier.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was wearing a floor-length strapless, lace gown. A flowing tulle veil and pearl accessories completed the ensemble. Her sister Kelsey Wilcher served as her maid of honor, and sister Zoe Wilcher was her bridesmaid.

The groom's best man was his brother Dillon Mooneyhan.

A reception was held to honor the couple in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Mooneyhan is a Warren County High School graduate, and earned an associate's degree from Motlow State Community College. Her husband also graduated at WCHS, and they are both employed with MPC in Morrison.

Following a honeymoon in Gatlinburg, they are residing in McMinnville.

Photo provided
Master basket maker Sue Williams, at left, and her apprentice Michelle Hennessee will demonstrate the basket making process March 8 at the Arts Center of Cannon County. The free event is open to the public.

White oak basket making class set for March 8

A master and apprentice team from the Tennessee Arts Commission's Traditional Arts Apprenticeship Program will be demonstrating white oak basket making in Woodbury on March 8 from 10 a.m. – 4 p.m. Master white oak basket maker Sue Williams of Morrison, and her apprentice Michelle Hennessee have been invited to display and demonstrate their rare and endangered folk craft at the Arts Center of Cannon County, located at 1424 John Bragg Highway, Woodbury.

Cannon, Warren, and Rutherford counties are considered by many folklorists to be the epicenter of this once ubiquitous local traditional art form. Williams and Hennessee will demonstrate and display their ongoing work. An accompanying PowerPoint presentation of their recent work together will also be shown. Attendance to this special Tennessee Folklife demonstration is free and open to the public.

Williams and Hennessee are one of nine teams funded by the Tennessee Arts Commission's Folklife Program to pass down rare and endangered traditional art forms and skills in this year's Tennessee Traditional Arts Apprenticeship Program.

Williams learned her art from legendary Cannon County basket makers Estel and Gertie Youngblood and Mary Jane Prater starting in 1985. She has avidly taught, promoted and sharpened her skills in her chosen craft over the years. Williams is training Hennessee in the full process of locating an appropriate white oak tree and harvesting a pole that will be of the quality needed to break down to get supplies ready to make a basket. Williams is also teaching her the Cannon County Tie, a special X Pattern with a vertical bar woven at the point where the basket handle connects to the rim on each side. Additionally people may sign up for a future basket making class to be scheduled at the Arts Center.

Apprentice Hennessee said, "There are very few people that understand and appreciate the work and various steps involved in harvesting the tree, preparing, and weaving a handmade white oak basket. Like so many skills of previous generations, these are at risk to become a lost art."

Documentary photographs featuring this team's work together, as well as displays of their baskets, will be included among photographs and artifacts from the other eight teams at the Traditional Arts Apprenticeship Program Exhibition, Tennessee Arts Commission's Gallery, May 18 to July 14 in Nashville.

For additional information call 615-563-2787 or visit our website at www.artscenterofcc.com.

FCEC NEWS

The Bonner FCE Club met at the residence of Teresa Priestley on Feb. 6 at 11 a.m. President Priestley welcomed nine members. Brenda Mitchell read an article "What If Jesus Came To Your Home." Members then stood and recited the Pledge of Allegiance. Our roll call was conducted by each member telling their favorite food made with cherries.

Minutes from the January meeting were read by Donna Dunlap and the financial report given by Linda Nixon.

We did not have an agent report. Linda Nixon and Connie York attended the recent Global Leaders meeting. They reported this year's country for Global Day will be England. Members are to bring a food that is noted by England. Each club is to provide two desserts and a drink. Also each club will bring door prizes. Our club will be setting up the tables. After our meal, each member is to bring a tea cup for a high tea. Also members are asked to bring a wedding picture and members are to guess who the picture belongs to.

A reading report was given by Brenda Mitchell. She also gave a demonstration of how to prepare an emergency kit. She gave information as to what needs to be in these kits. Also Lisa Keener demonstrated how to make potato salad and gave everyone the recipe.

We received a thank you note from the Hamilton Street Activity Center for our donation in memory of our member Faye Hickey. We provided paper goods today for the center.

We will be preparing goody bags for the residents of the Fannie B's Home and make a special delivery to them. Members volunteered as to what they would provide for the bags.

We decided our club would do another scrapbook. We voted to reimburse Priestley for materials she has purchased. We discussed our gold stars and updated these today.

Priestley gave everyone a pamphlet "Be A Smart Health Care Consumer," and asked for us to look this over and try to do some of the suggestions.

We also discussed the upcoming visitation day, which we are in charge of. She has notified the other clubs presidents as to what they are to bring that day.

We closed our meeting by reciting the FCE Creed and Brenda did a blessing for our lunch. We adjourned for a delicious meal of soup, sandwiches and desserts. We had a time of food and fellowship.

SUBSCRIBE & SAVE!

Southern  Standard

CALL 473-2191

Friends & Family Day!!

Sunday, March 4, 2018

Sunday School at 10:00
Morning Worship at 10:45

McMinnville Church of God
204 Locust St.

Barbecue Lunch following Morning Worship

Everyone Welcome!!!

Call the church for more information
473-2669

Bridal Gift Registry...

Marianne Borden & Andy Harrell

Savannah York & Hayden Wood

Allison Connor & Coble Whitaker

Southern Traditions
Gifts & Interiors

918 Sparta St. • McMinnville, TN • 473-4348