Business was pushed to the backburner Monday when 80 golfers took to the McMinnville Country Club course for the 39th annual Industrial Development Board golf tournament.

A flash flood just an hour before the scheduled noon start didn't seem to dampen the field, which went out looking to fire low scores.

The foursome of Curt Tilton, Josh Elam, Danny Sutton and Josh Gillespie proved to be the top team in competition, finishing with an 9-under, 63 to claim the title. Their victory came on a score-card playoff, breaking a tie with the team of Jackie Haley, Cody Huddleston, Wesley Minton and Jason Denney.

Brittany Myers, Grant Lane, Andela Reditko and Alan West finished a stroke behind in third, while Pieter van Vuuren, Dean Blankenship, Micheau Panter and Rolfe Srofe placed fourth.

There were several individual awards handed out as well, most going to players who helped their team move to the top of the leaderboard.

Myers won the longest drive for women, while Gentry Underhill claimed the longest drive on the par-5, No. 3.

Closest-to-the-hole winners on the course's four par-3's were Denney, van Vuuren, Terry Smith and Bill Harris.
