

Food demonstration booth ready for Farmers Market

The Farmers Market is an excellent place for buying fresh fruits and vegetables. This summer, in addition to picking up some homegrown fruits and vegetables, you can pick up some research-based knowledge as well.

The University of Tennessee – Tennessee State University Extension in Warren County will be at the Farmers Market offering food demonstrations, recipes and samples on Wednesdays in downtown McMinnville.

According to Dr. Christopher Sneed with UT Extension, the primary objective of the Farmers Market Fresh Program is to encourage purchasing fresh fruits and vegetables at such markets.

Grown-ups are not the only ones who will enjoy a stop by the Farmers Market Fresh booth. The young ones are sure to enjoy a sample of the food prepared.

In addition, they will be able to participate in a weekly children’s challenge. Through the challenge, they are able to earn prizes for finding fruits and vegetables and talking with the farmers at the market.

“We are glad to offer this food program,” said Hilda Lytle of UT-TSU Extension Warren County. “It’s wonderful to be partnering with the market to focus on foods, cooking skills and healthy eating.”

Program assistant Kerry Mullican and Lytle will set up at the market for eight Wednesdays from 7 a.m. – 10 a.m. or until supplies are all gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lee-Allen Turner were wed at The Chapel at Lee University in Cleveland on May 14. The bride is the former Sarah Noe, and the daughter of Phillip and Melanie Noe.

Noe, Turner marry at Lee University

The Chapel at Lee University in Cleveland was the location for the exchanging of vows for Sarah Noe and Paul Lee-Allen Turner. The couple wed May 19 in a 4 p.m. ceremony officiated by Jamison Crouch.

The bride is the daughter of Phillip and Melanie Noe. Her grandparents are the late Barbara and Talmadge Wilson, and Ruth and the late Kenneth Noe.

Mr. Turner is the son of John and Terri Turner, and the grandson of the late Turney and Wanda Craddock, and Paul and the late Frances Turner.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents wearing a floor-length designer gown in an A-line silhouette with long lace sleeves and back. Her cascading bridal bouquet was filled with coral garden roses, white garden roses, snapdragons, coral coffee berry and assorted greenery.

Serving her sister as matron of honor was Emily Wilson. Her bridesmaids were Shea Miller, Hannah Rule, Kellie Webb and Alison Vannoy. The flower girl was Lelon Webb.

John Adam Turner served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Matthew Wiggins, Jerry Agan, Tyler Wilson and Cole Patton. Enoch Jones was the ring bearer.

A reception was given by the bride’s parents to honor the newlyweds at Cleveland Country Club. Approximately 140 guests were in attendance. Musical selections were provided by Sound Force.

The new Mrs. Turner is a graduate of Tennessee Tech University with a bachelor’s degree in education. She is currently employed as a special education teacher at Bobby Ray Memorial Elementary.

Her husband is also a TTU graduate, earning a degree in animal science. He is employed with Turner and Sons Nursery.

They honeymooned in Punta Cana, Dominican Republic, and are making their home in Smithville.

The General Sessions Court of Judge William Locke would like to thank everyone who participated in the Juvenile Car Wash on June 30th, 2018. It was a huge success and the kids washed over 200 cars! We hope everyone who came enjoyed their free car wash, and we hope to see you again next year!

We would like to personally thank those who generously donated to our cause. The car wash would not have been a success without you:

- Thank you O'Reilly for two bottles of car soap and five sponges.
- Thank you Wal-Mart for the $20 gift card, we were able to get everything we needed!
- Thank you Domino's Pizza for eight delicious pizzas.
- Thank you Dr. Pepper for two coolers of drinks; they were very refreshing.
- Thank you Cantrell's Septic for one portable toilet.
- Thank you Caney Fork Electric for the use of your location and water; we greatly appreciate it!
