Florence, weakened, still poses lethal threat

WILMINGTON,

N.C. (AP) — The outer bands of wind and rain from a weakened but still lethal Hurricane Florence began lashing North Carolina on storm moved in for a proly to hover along the coast Saturday, pushing up to 13 feet of storm surge and unloading water on both states.

The forecast calls for as Thursday as the monster much as 40 inches of rain over seven days along the coast, with the deluge continuing even as the center of the storm pushes its way over the Appalachian Mountains. The result could be what the Houston area saw during Hurricane Harvey just over a year ago: catastrophic inland flooding that could swamp homes, farms businesses, and industrial sites. The police chief of a barrier island in Florence's bull'seve said he was asking for next-of-kin contact information from the few residents who refused to leave. "I'm not going to put our personnel in harm's way, especially for people that we've already told to evacuate," Wrightsville Beach Police Chief Dan House said.

Alter Ego —

Jansen Odineal was brave enough to ride Alter Ego with his wife, Dana. He described it as "exhilarating" while Dana went a step further. "When we stopped at the top, I thought I was going to freak out," said Dana. "It nearly scared me to death, but I would get on it again right now if I had the tickets.'

WCHS student Riley Orrick said Alter Ego is not for anyone afraid of heights. He said he knew the ride would be terrifying but decided to ride anyway.

"Might as well try it at least once," said Orrick.

Other fair-goers marveled at Alter Ego from the ground and vowed that's as close as they would get.

"I'd have a heart attack if I got on that thing," said Brenda Roberts.

For those eager to give Alter Ego a try, it's located just past the main entrance to the midway on the right.

Johnny Earl Lee, 90 Johnny Earl Lee was born in Beaver Hill (Overton County), Tenn., to the late Joe Beecher and Velma Freeman Lee on July 13, 1928. He left this life to be with Jesus on Sunday, Sept. 9. His body could not be healed this side of heaven and he was ready for his heavenly healing.

He owned a powerful love for our Lord and Savior that he delighted in sharing with others. He never met a stranger and was well known for his warm hugs and his enormous capacity to love everyone. His love for the earth contributed to his commitment to recycling and composting. His love for flowers, shrubs, and trees grew a beautiful garden that neighbors called "Little Cypress Garden." His love for wood provided many pieces of beautiful furniture for his family. His love for his country led him to serve in the United States Navy during the Korean Conflict. His love for his family made memories that we will treasure and will sustain us. Everything he touched grew larger and more beautiful. He was the ultimate encourager. The only thing he asked of us was to return that great love. He made that easy to do.

He married and was joined to the heart of Daphne Hutchinson on June 7, 1954. He and Daphne spent 34 years as the owners of Johnny Lee's Truck and Trailer in Lakeland, Fla.

He is survived by Daphne H. Lee, his wife of 64 years; four children and their spouses Marsha and Robert Newman, Mindy and Jay Stephens, Angela and Mike Smith, and Jim and Abby Lee; 12 grandchildren, and 16 great-grandchildren; two brothers Joe C. Lee and Don Lee; and numerous nieces, nephews, and friends.

longed and potentially catastrophic drenching along the Southeast coast.

Florence's winds had dropped from a peak of 140 mph to 105 mph by midmorning, reducing the hurricane from a terrifying Category 4 to a 2. But forecasters warned the widening storm — and its likelihood of lingering around the coast day after day will bring seawater surging onto land and torrential downpours.

"It truly is really about the whole size of this storm," National Hurricane Center director Ken Graham said. "The larger and the slower the storm is, the greater the threat and the impact — and we have that."

Forecasters said Florence's eye could come ashore early Friday around the North Carolina-South Carolina line. Then it is like-
