

Fall Festival Fun

Celebrate the changing of the seasons during Oklahoma's fall festivals

By Jess Kelsey
Staff Writer

Summertime is almost over, but that does not mean the fun has to end. Check out our 2018 Fall Festival Guide to uncover the countless festivals Oklahoma has to offer to help get the entire family into the autumnal spirit.

Dig out your favorite fall sweaters and bundle up for all things fun during these upcoming weeks.

Enjoy the fall weather with Harrah's Market in the Park Oct. 6. The annual celebration draws in thousands of art, craft, bluegrass and BBQ fans. Fair style food vendors will be on site and the Harrah Bluegrass Festival and Pigs in the Park-BBQ Cook Off will coincide with the Market in the Park festivities.

If you are looking for a culture-filled day, stop by the Oklahoma Czech Festival in Yukon set for Oct. 6. Yukon is the Czech capital of Oklahoma and this 53rd annual festival shares the Czech culture through food, music, dancing and one of the state's largest parades.

The area will also be busy with unique festivals celebrating the history of towns, including the Mid-America Street Festival in Midwest City and Old Timers Day in Jones, both filled with live entertainment and activities for the whole family to enjoy.

If you are looking for all things pumpkin, make sure to take a trip to Pumpkinville at the Myriad Botanical Gardens in Oklahoma City. Referred to as one of the most treasured fall traditions in Oklahoma City, Pumpkinville is a New England themed Pumpkin Town that will feature more than 16,000 pumpkins, hundreds of gourds, a variety of fall foliage and tons of fun activities, such as imaginative displays, creative crafts and fun games that celebrate the fall season.

Keep reading to find several other events throughout Oklahoma that are perfect for the whole family to enjoy and celebrate the change of seasons.

