

Spencer County 4-H Ambassador Contest

All Spencer County 4-H participants certainly represent the organization well, but only one per age group could be named Spencer County 4-H Ambassador in a contest held June 20 at the Youth & Community Center in Chrisney.

Mollie Rice was named Mini Ambasador in Grades K-2 category, while Quinn Keller was named Young Ambassador in Grades 3-5 category. Seth Thomas was named Senior Ambassador, representing 4-H youth in Grades 9-12.

Congratulations to all who participated and continue to represent our county in 4-H activities!

Mini Ambassador (Grades K-2)

Mollie Rice is the daughter of Amy and Arbie Rice. She is home-schooled. The benefits she says she gets from 4-H are meeting more kids who have the same goals as hers, and that it keeps her active in life skills. She also enjoys being part of a group. Mollie is involved in her church and Crown Pointe Dance Studio and she enjoys ballet, tap and singing.

Andrew Lloyd is the son of Tara and Tim Lloyd. He attends school at St. Bernard. The benefits he says he gets from 4-H are making friends, getting to spend a week at the fair, and being able to help his dad and brother in the beef barn. He enjoys helping his mom in the concession stand at school games, reads and cantors sometimes at mass, and he enjoys playing football, basketball, and football, as well as putting together Legos.

Melanie Fetter is the daughter of Tim and Jodi Fetter. She attends school at Nancy Hanks. The benefits she says she gets from
