assisting the school librarian. After graduation she spent 13 years at the Department of Public Welfare in Rockport. Valedictorian of her high school class, June's dream was really to be a stay-at-home mom but as often happens, life got in the way.

One morning, after being up all night with a sick child, June had a wreck on the way to Rockport. Daryl begged her not to go, he knew she was tired. It was her turn to drive the carpool and the weather was bad but it wasn't the roads, it was the lack of sleep. All four occupants — including the driver — fell asleep. Luckily they weren't hurt, but this was a wake up call. The wreck sealed the deal and since 1987, June has served as head of accounts payable at Winkler's Inc. She plans to retire next August after 32 years, but for both of them, the grocery wholesale company has been a blessing.

The couple wed on April 16,

1977 at Dale UMC. The reception was held at the Santa Claus Legion. "We honeymooned in Gatlinburg," and as Daryl drove, June opened the cards given for their nuptials and wrote down who gave what, so they'd have money to spend.

They rented an apartment behind the former bank in Dale for $70 a month and it was so small, June couldn't even bring all her clothes as the apartment only had one tiny closet. "I was raised in the country, but he moved me to the city," June explains with a chuckle. "Dave and Deanne [Siegel] had just moved out."

They would not be long in this place, as the two had purchased a 900 square foot home the previous February but could not take immediate possession. The house has grown since then with four additions and now measures 2,000 square feet.
