

Christmas at home with the mayor

Stunning antiques fit beautifully in the home, which contains quite a few oak elements such as the fireplace mantel, doors and trim, as well as lovely pocket doors separating the formal living room from the dining room (not shown).

Many collectibles fill the home, including the Santas at right and mechanical carousels (below) and other magical pieces kept in the room where the Harney grandchildren generally gather.

Some of the furniture and objects d'art had been acquired by Gay Ann's parents during her dad's years in the military, especially during two tours of Germany where Mayor Harney spent much of her childhood.

Mayor Gay Ann Harney has restored her stunningly beautiful Rockport home from top to bottom. And she didn't stop with redecorating as she adorns the entire house for Christmas (and other seasons as well). The number of Christmas trees alone is staggering, and the attention to detail quite amazing, as no corner was left untouched.
