

Living With Children

By John Rosemond

Copyright 2017, John K. Rosemond

"Potty training is a nightmare." So begins advice from Meghan Leahy, advice columnist for The Washington Post. More accurately, potty training has, of late, BECOME a nightmare, thanks to advice of the sort Ms. Leahy dishes. Her approach? Do nothing. The child will eventually use the potty on his own. That may be true, but what Leahy fails to add is "after the child's mother has had a nervous breakdown."

In the mid-1950s, Harvard and several other prestigious institutions found that nearly 90 percent of 24-month-old American children had been accident-free for a month, meaning the mean age for successful toilet training when Grandma was the parenting expert was 20 to 22 months.

This miracle was accomplished by parents – mothers, mostly – simply telling their children what to do. They did not ask said children if they wanted to use the potty, offer rewards, sing potty songs, play potty games, sit with their children while they got used to the idea, follow them around the house asking every three minutes if they wanted to try and use the potty, scream, weep, threaten Inquisitional beatings for wet or soiled clothing, much less consult lists of "readiness signs" pulled out of thin air by a nationally-known pediatrician who ended his career as a spokesperson for Pampers.

They simply and straightforwardly told their children, "You are no longer wearing diapers. You are going to use the toilet like the rest of us. Any questions?" To that end, they provided minimal structure, scolded (sans drama) "mistakes," and voila! Within several days to a week, their kids were using the toilet reliably. I was one of those kids. My mother, as is the case with many moms of her day, did not even remember toilet training me. That's how easy-peasy it was before people with capital letters after their names began opining on the subject.

The toilet-babble of said pediatrician became the gold standard in the 1970s and has prevailed since. He said toilet training a child before 24 months required "force" and would result in a psychological apocalypse. Ironically, he admitted that he was trained before age two (demurring, however, that it was his mother who had been trained). He was unable to identify how he had been traumatized by this abuse. That is because he had not been traumatized at all. Before his second birthday, his mother had liberated him from messy diapers and contributed greatly to his socialization. How that amounts to "my mother was trained" is beyond me, but that is the sort of thing one says when one's lack of logic is exposed.

Ms. Leahy tells her audience that "...many of the timelines we place on our children (pooping in the potty) are not in line with their development." She means parents expect too much. No, they expect too little, but understandably so. They've been led to believe, after all, that expecting what is historically normal will induce a life-long phobia concerning white porcelain objects.

As the result of expert-advice-induced anxieties, today's all-too-typical mom waits for her child to wake up one morning and announce, "Good news, Mom! I'm ready to use the potty!" This mom does not know that research has found what Grandma intuitively knew: Waiting past his or her second birthday INCREASES the likelihood that a child will resist using the toilet. This problem has become so ubiquitous that pediatricians have come up with a name for it: Bowel-retention syndrome.

Ms. Leahy concludes her advice with "Good luck."

Wrong again. Luck has nothing to do with it. Toilet training success is nothing akin to throwing dice. Like 95 percent of parenting matters, it is a matter of the proper presentation of parent authority – a calm, straightforward authority that contains the subtext "I know what you need to do, and I am confident that you are going to do it." This is about obedience, not bogus "readiness." And make no mistake, everyone benefits from pre-two training. The operative principle: If you want a child to do what he is told, simply TELL.

Isn't that brilliant? Not really. Your great-grandmother could have told you that. There is, after all, no new parenting insight under the sun.

Family psychologist John Rosemond: johnrosemond.com, parentguru.com.

Businesses and Services Directory

SCOTT PETROLEUM CORPORATION
www.scottpetroleuminc.com

KENNY JOINER
Division Manager

309 Depot St.
Lexington, MS 39095

Office: 662-834-1089
Fax: 662-834-6082
Cell: 662-299-7461
kjoiner@scottpetroleuminc.com

Visit us in Tchula, Lexington, Durant, Pickens and Canton.

$16/WEEK
Three Months
Minimum

Jim Arnold
Attorney at Law

- Chapter 13 Bankruptcy • No upfront fee except filing fee
- Chapter 7 Bankruptcy • $750 plus filing fee
- No Fault Divorces • $399 plus court fees

Call for an appointment 662-653-6448 or 601-656-6914

Little ads get
BIG results

List in the Directory

Call the Herald at 662-834-1151

FOR SALE: 194 ACRES in Holmes County, $2,350.00 per acre. Half of this property has mature hardwoods, the other half has planted pines. This land has some of the best deer hunting in the county. For the last eight years we have strictly managed for big buck hunting. Completely fenced, great food plots, shooting houses with stairways. Roads with power and water access. Over 2,000 acres surrounding this property are strictly managed for mature deer hunting. Has perfect lake site that would require very little dirt work. Call - 601-500-0094.

Affordable
FUNERAL HOME
OF DURANT

James and Veronica Smith, Owners

390 East Madison Street
Durant, Mississippi 39063
662-653-3770 / 662-653-3711 fax
www.affordablefuneralhomeofdurant.com

1st Year Anniversary
CELEBRATING ON FRIDAY
AUGUST 17

First 25 Customers Get a
FREE T-SHIRT
Starting at 11 a.m.
Again at 5 p.m.

Mon. - Thurs. 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Fri. - Sat. 10 a.m. - 12 p.m.
(May Vary)

(662) 450-8131

LEXINGTON
home center

109 Carrollton
Lexington • 662-834-9007

Locally owned and operated!

FRANKS
CHEVROLET

www.frankschevy.com

sfranks@frankschevy.com
Office (662) 289-4611
Fax (662) 633-4400

STEPHEN FRANKS

1001 Hwy 35 N • Kosciusko, MS 39090

Need help getting approved for Long Term Care?

Let us guide you through the application process.

Durant
Healthcare, LLC

MON. - FRI. 9 A.M. TO 5 P.M. • 662-653-4106
15481 BOWLING GREEN ROAD • DURANT, MS

Close-out Prices on 2018 Models

FINANCING LOW AS

REBATES

0%

AVAILABLE!

ON CERTAIN MODELS

Plenty of Used Late
Model Trade-Ins
in Stock!

HAMMETT MOTOR CO.

INTERSECTION OF
HWY. 12 W & 51 N

662-653-3141
DURANT

FIND US ON THE WEB AT:
www.hammettmotorco.com

no BIZZ Court Square
Lexington
Satisfy your Cravings:

Over 30 Flavors • Smoothies • Milkshakes
Ice-Blended Coffees
Blue-Bell Ice-Cream • Nachos & More

132 N. Vine Street
M-Sat. 12 p.m. - 7 p.m.
Sunday 2 p.m. - 6 p.m.

