

Jolly of Clinton displays art at Jones Co. Jr. College exhibition

Special to The Clinton Courier

Twelve Jones County Junior College sophomores had the chance to display their art as part of the Sophomore Art Exhibit in the Eula Bass Lewis Art Gallery recently. The aspiring artists were also honored for their accomplishments at a reception hosted by the college. This exhibit was the final opportunity for the sophomores to show off their talents; but, as JCJC art instructor Melanie Eubanks explains, exhibiting artwork was a new experience for JCJC art graduates. Pictured, Alana Jolly of Clinton poses with some of her artwork on display as part of the Sophomore Art Show at JCJC.
