

It's Wild And Wacky At The Ag Olympics

The 105th annual Clay County Fair will kick off its seventh annual Ag Olympics competition on Friday, July 13, 11:00 a.m., near the band shelter.

Kids of any age have the chance to throw eggs at each other in the egg toss competition. The hitch is the egg has to be tossed carefully enough that the person one is aiming at actually catches the egg.

Even though egg throwing isn't allowed at home, here is a chance to toss away.

Promoting agriculture has always been a prime purpose of the Clay County Fair. By involving kids in wacky, fun, ag-related competitions, the young participants get caught up in the exciting world of agriculture.

Participants move from station to station to try their luck at completing the games.

The events include stacking straw bales, bean bag toss, feed sack race, sunflower seed spitting contest, hula hoop spinning contest, water bucket filling, egg toss and nail driving competition.

Agriculture is a vital industry which provides the basic needs of food and shelter to the entire world. Offering opportunities for a little summer fun for boys and girls with ag-related products is the intent of Ag Olympics. And it is just one of the many fun activities at the 2018 Clay County Fair.

Your entire family will enjoy the Ag Olympics!
