

Cake Walk

September 22 at Kiwanis Park

Sara Boyd of Rives is co-chairman of the CornFest Family Day in the Park Cake Walk. This is her third year in that role with the annual festival. She is an employee of Sullivan Dentistry in Union City and is married to Blake Boyd. They have one fur baby named Sam and are expecting their first child this fall. She is a member of Troy First Baptist Church, is an Obion County Chamber of Commerce ambassador and volunteers for Dentistry from the Heart.

Nell Garrigan of Union City is co-chairman of the cake walk event at Family Day in the Park. This is her third year volunteering with CornFest and her third in the position. She is employed at Sullivan Dentistry in Union City. She teaches Sunday school at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church and also volunteers with Chimes for Charity and Dentistry from the Heart.

Megan Edgington of Troy is chairman for the cake walk and the social media advertising. This is her 10th year volunteering with CornFest. She is an independent insurance broker.

It's so sweet, you can taste it.

That's the 2018 CornFest Day in the Park cake walk opportunity.

Sweet treat baked items, provided by some of the best cooks in the area, will be awarded to participants who pay $1 for a ticket to take part in the event Sept. 22 at Kiwanis Park in downtown Union City.

Any visitor with a sweet tooth and a $1 ticket in hand for each opportunity may participate every half hour from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the park, say event chairmen Sara Douglas Boyd, Nell Garrigan and Megan Edgington.

There is no age limit and no pre-registration is necessary.

"This event is special because there will be so many delicious cakes that are specially prepared to be given away. It's fun for everyone, no matter what the age, and people can participate as many times as they like throughout the day," says Mrs. Boyd.
