

Williams Sausage Concert

September 13 at Discovery Park of America

BLACKBERRY BREEZE

Get ready for some Alabama Reggae music as Blackberry Breeze takes the stage at Discovery Park of America's Libation Station on Sept. 13 at 7 p.m.

It's a free concert brought to you by Obion County CornFest and Williams Sausage.

Gates open at 5 when Mandy Vixen and Gas Station Chicken perform. The band was founded in 2016 when singers, Quint and Amanda Spraggs, formerly of Q&A Session, decided to add members to their successful acoustic act. There's nothing as southern and soulful as gas station chicken served up hot and fresh, and this band really turns up the heat. The goal of the band is to offer original southern-fried soul music, as well as their take on crispy cover tunes. The band also includes Luke Comer and Dan Comer.

"Hyperbole is rarely distant when describing a concert experience. Vague descriptors lose their meaning. Awesome. Incredible. Amazing. We dig into the pockets of our vocabulary in an attempt to convey our experience, and we come up with cliché, recycled answers," said Hunter Carrigan of Psyche Films.

"A live Blackberry Breeze show brings a different word to mind; one that I've never used or even considered until now — present. Yes, their songwriting is awesome, of course their music and stage presence is incredible, and there's no doubt the energy in the room was amazing, but there's never been a show I've attended where I felt so present — truly in the moment. In a world where our minds are on a perpetual swivel, Blackberry Breeze captures that wandering attention and holds it until the last note," he said.

Blackberry Breeze was formed in 2012 in a mechanic shop in Dadeville, Ala. The band still has two of its founding members active in the band, Trey Foshee (vocals/guitar) and Paul Blankenship (vocals/bass). They are now joined by Jake Rodgers (vocals/drums) and Jordan Cunningham (sound/lights).

Bring the kids and a lawn chair and enjoy an evening with your friends and neighbors at DPA's Libation Station.

Food and drinks will be available to purchase.

Williams Sausage
is a proud supporter of Cornfest 2018!