

Mink Jumps and Train Rides

September 22 at Kiwanis Park

Once pets have paraded through Kiwanis Park on the morning of Sept. 22, it will be time for children to run off some energy in other fun pursuits.

Among those opportunities that will be available, beginning at 10 a.m., will be the bouncy houses, climbing fun and rides offered by Magical Mink's Jumps in the park.

The free fun will continue throughout most of the day at Day in the Park and will be open to all younger children.

Showman and fun master Larry Mink will be returning to the park for the sixth time as part of the CornFest line-up of family-friendly and free fun on tap at the popular gathering spot.

So bring children of all ages to the park, find a seat for yourself in the shade, and watch them delight in the opportunity to run and jump and yell and do all manner of "kid" things — just because they can.

It will be a great day for everyone, Mink promises.
