will perform. Kenny Hemphill, is a festival favorite. Hemphill will perform again at 1:30 p.m. He plays and sings a wide range of music and is sure to have festival-goers on their feet dancing.

Hemphill is passionate about the festival and has donated many hours coordinating the entertainment schedule and working to set up the Chamber’s portable stage.

At 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., Heritage Story Telling will take place. Rick Mansfield is a local legend with his storytelling and brings history to life. Mansfield, who lives in Reynolds County, is a retired school superintendent and author. He can often be found on weekends doing storytelling at Webb Creek Park in the summers or at Echo Bluff State Park.

Mansfield will be bring to life two historical figures. Dr. Pettit, the first doctor arriving to what would become Wayne County in 1803, one of first settlers. His stories will combine history with typical training and work of doctors at that time; accompanied with a few of the good doctor’s most interesting cases. James Monroe Daniel “Jeems” was the

The Country Fire Cloggers will dance at 2 p.m. Several members of the group are from Wayne County. The group has won many clogging awards.
