

City Council meets

The Greensburg City Council held its regular called monthly meeting Monday evening. The council heard updates from the various city departments and Mayor John Shuffett presented updates concerning the Greensburg Housing Authority and the city's positive relationship with the Green-Taylor Water District. Pictured, clockwise from left, are C.W. Van Arsdale and Tony Morgan, council members; Adam Stearman, city attorney; Marty Young, council member; John Shuffett, mayor; Kim Henderson, asst. city clerk; Jerry Cowherd, Robbie Eastham and Connie Judd, council members.

"High school-wise, we have 22 boys in the program, 9-12."

"We have really good support. The crowds are tremendous," the coach said.

There are nine boys on the freshmen team and the junior varsity is currently 10-1, having lost for the first time last night.

Varsity play revolves around an emphasis on playing hard, adapting to a different style of play and adjusting to a different way of coaching.

There are five seniors on the team

One of the biggest adjustments for the team is having to learn how to make decisions on the fly. Our skill set has gotten a lot better and will continue to get better, he said.

The coach also stressed that the program's intent is to get the players to be good role models on and off the basketball floor.

Discipline, fairness and trust are part of the program as well as a caring presence with the players and the coach plans to keep improving and keep building.

"We want to build on what Coach Keith Young had built," Coach Distefano said.

The Dragons play tonight at 7 p.m., following the Lady Dragons.

Comer

"We commend Congressman Comer on his tireless work on the House Agriculture Committee and as a member of the 2018 Farm Bill Conference Committee," said AFBF President Zippy Duvall.

"He has been a good friend to agriculture not only in his home state of Kentucky, but to farmers and ranchers across the country,"

AFBF's Outstanding New Member of Congress award is presented to one first-time representative or senator, regardless of party affiliation, whose philosophy and record demonstrate a commitment to the private enterprise system, sound agricultural policies supported by AFBF, fiscal conservatism and reduced federal regulation of business and individuals.
