

Tennis courts in full swing

A portion of the Green County Middle School's parking lot has been transformed into a temporary tennis court by GCMS athletic director Jeff Davis. Georgetown tennis stand-out and GCMS teacher Jaqueline Noe was recently named tennis coach. Green County, always looking to expand opportunities for students, added the tennis program this school year for middle and high school students. Due to the weather, the team was able to have only two outdoor practices before their first scrimmage in Campbellsville yesterday. Any student interested in joining the tennis team may contact Coach Noe at GCMS.

Duck, Dodge, Dive!

The second annual Duck, Dodge, Dive Dodgeball Tournament was held at Green County Middle School March 9. Corey Witcher ducks as he hits the ground and Tajh Calhoun dives over a ball. The track fundraiser provided fun, entertainment, and laughter all while raising money for the track team.

Brenton Calhoun rallied his friends late in the week to form a team and support the local athletes. A number of competitive players threw full-speed at the opponent. Over $900 was raised in one evening for the track team.

After his entire team was tagged out, Jody Marr does his best to keep his team alive for another game as he dodges a ball while preparing to throw one of the smaller stinger balls.

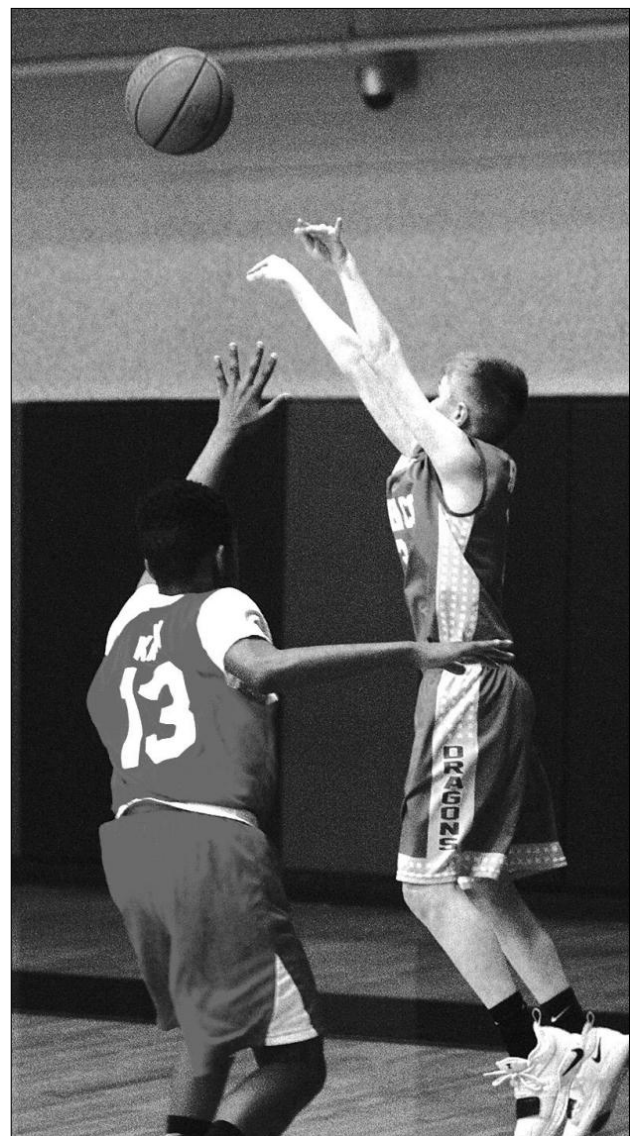

Members of the Pink Panther 16U team attempted to dodge a tag. The team won 'Best Dressed' and the 16U division.

No Mercy, female 80's team member Jessica Beard uses a ball to shield incoming fast balls thrown at her head.

AAU Tourney

Eli Bishop was sizzling from the three-point line over the weekend in Bowling Green. The seventh grade travel basketball team traveled to Bowling Green's Rec Center and competed in an AAU Tournament. Bishop finished one game with four 3-point shots.

Kelson McKinney and Koltyn Milby share the look of concentration as they prepare to rebound a missed free-throw. The Dragons fell in the championship game to Sports Reach 51-47 March 10.
