

HOSA succeeds at State Leadership Conference

SPECIAL TO THE R-H
GC ATC

Students from Green County recently gained the opportunity to compete at HOSA – Future Health Professionals State Leadership Conference March 21-23 at Crowne Plaza in Louisville.

HOSA – Future Health Professionals is a student-led professional organization for students pursuing a career pathway in the health care industry.

HOSA gives students the opportunity to gain knowledge in the area of health care and the careers of their interest. This conference helps students gain leadership and communication skills much needed in the health care industry. This year, eleven students from our local chapter stepped up to the challenge of competing with over 1200 other health care students from across the state.

The following students competed at the state level and placed in their division:

Community Awareness Team – 2nd place – Lindi Compton, Morgan Hadley, Abby Knoy, and Isaiah Young; 4th place Veterinary Science – Kaitlyn Shoe.

Events students competed in included: Nursing Assistant – Clark Church, Home Health Aide – Shalyn Williams, Health Career Display – Hailee Corbin and Olivia Davis, and Medical Reading – Kayla McQueary and she served as a voting delegate for the chapter as well.

Competitors reaching the goal of first through third place will advance on to compete with other HOSA state worldwide champions at the HOSA International Leadership Conference, in Orlando, Fla. in June.

Green County ATC serves students from Green County, Campbellsville and Taylor County high schools.

HOSA is just one of many student-led organizations that are offered at Green County ATC.

Along with HOSA, there is also DECA for marketing students, Skills USA for students interested in the fields of automotive, computerized machining, robotics, wood manufacturing, and welding; as well as FBLA for students interested in the business field.

All of these organizations allow students to learn more about their chosen career pathway as well as giving them opportunity to gain leadership abilities and sharpen their skills by competing locally, regionally, statewide, and even on the national level. If interested in learning more about HOSA please visit the national website at hosa.org.

To help sponsor students in their journey to attend HOSA ILC, please contact Karen Compton, Green Co. ATC HOSA Advisor.
