New GCIS principal named

An Adair County native with over two decades of experience in the education realm has been chosen to lead Green County Intermediate School.

Donna Young was named principal of Green County Intermediate School last week.

The new principal, selected by the School-Based Decision Making Council made up of three teachers, two parents, and the superintendent, was named May 23.

Young, a 1993 Lindsey Wilson College alumni and the current vice principal at Adair County Middle School, is closing out her year in Columbia and looks to begin her new role at GCIS in June.

"Green County as a community is very welcoming," Donna Young said. "I've already heard from several faculty and staff and appreciate the feel of such a supportive atmosphere."

Young is not a stranger to Green County. She is a familiar face at Green County Middle School as she was the assistant principal and athletic director for a stint in 2013-14. In addition, with Adair County just across the county line, Young is a frequent flyer to Green County's Rock Bottom Wholesale, she said.

Young's resume is attractive and shows experience all across the education realm, from high school English and coaching, college coaching and elementary education, and a plethora in between.

"We are excited to add Ms. Donna Young to the administrative staff here in Green County," Green County Superintendent of Schools Will Hodges said. "Her experience and dedication will be valuable in leading Green County Intermediate School."

Young says she looks forward to working in the Green County District again.

"I believe Green County Schools truly care about their students," she said. "I know Green County Schools believes in respecting and valuing people."
