Savoyard Christian Academy visited the library November 14. They made Christmas ornaments and photo necklaces and learned about everything the library has to offer. Next, they took a historical walking tour around Greensburg with Ms. Laura where they visited the old Clerk's Office, Jeremiah Abell's cabin, and the old Courthouse. The children got to walk across the footbridge to visit the Greensburg Bottling Company and they ended their visit by playing in the new children's area. If you'd like to schedule a tour with your group, contact the library at 270-932-7081.

KSP's Cram the Cruiser is underway

The Kentucky State Police kicked off their 10th annual "Cram The Cruiser" holiday food drive today. Designed to provide non-perishable food items for families in need throughout the Commonwealth, the campaign will continue locally next week.

Officers from KSP Post 15 will be at Green County High School Dec. 11, Green County Intermediate School Dec. 12, and Green County Primary School Dec. 13.

Citizens who want to contribute food items are encouraged to drop off non-perishable food items at any of those schools during the campaign.

"Hunger is an urban, suburban and rural problem," says KSP Spokesperson Sergeant Josh Lawson. "There is no area of the state where it does not exist. Through this program, we have an opportunity to make a significant impact on the lives of our neighbors and participate in the spirit of the season."

Suggested donations include non-expired canned fruit and vegetables, canned meat, macaroni and cheese, cereal, peanut butter, jelly, canned soups, chili or spaghetti sauce, brownie and cake mixes, coffee, water, powdered milk and juices.

The food will be distributed to local shelters, churches or other organizations in the areas where they are collected says Lawson.

"The holidays are a time when people come together to support one another. Last year, nearly 243,000 pounds of food were donated from individuals, businesses, school groups, social clubs, scout troops and civic organizations throughout the state," he notes. "Feeding our neighbors is a noble cause, but it takes a team effort. Together we can take a stand against hunger and help make the holidays bright for families in need this year."

Being Childlike

In the eighteenth chapter of the Gospel of Matthew, the disciples ask Jesus who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. As Jesus often does, he both shows them and tells them the answer. Jesus calls a child to come over, sets the child in their midst and says "Truly I tell you, unless you change and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. Therefore, whoever takes the lowly position of this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven." (Matthew 18:3-4 NIV) Jesus calls explicit attention here to the humility and obedience of the child, who came and sat with them without asking questions. And as usual, the kingdom of heaven reverses the values of this world. In the kingdom of heaven, the lowly and humble shall be first. Pride and arrogance, and self-serving ambition may get you the highest position here on earth, but in the kingdom of heaven, the highest position is for the humble and lowly, and those with the simple faith and obedience of a child. The fact that the disciples are even asking the question reveals to Jesus how much they are stuck in the mindset of this world, thinking of hierarchies and pecking orders. Jesus wants them to re-evaluate their worldly values and consider that things in heaven will be quite different. Consider how much your own values (materialism, ambition, pride, etc.) are really the values of this world and not the values of the kingdom of heaven.

- Christopher Simon

"Do not love the world or anything in the world. If anyone loves the world, love for the Father is not in them. For everything in the world—the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life—comes not from the Father but from the world." 1 John 2:15-16 NIV
