

Veterans' stories needed for printed magazine

Special to The Clinton Courier

During a drive down Clinton Parkway around Veterans Day and Memorial Day, one cannot help but notice the banners displayed to honor veterans in our community. City officials say it is a privilege of the City of Clinton to honor those who have given their service to their country.

As an extension of those traditions, the Olde Towne Depot is preparing a collection of stories to be printed in magazine format. Once completed, booklets will be available for purchase at the Olde Towne Depot. This collection can only be made possible with stories from veterans who are willing to share. The Olde Towne Depot has the desire to present these experiences in a manner that helps the reader appreciate the men and women who have sacrificed for our country. The Depot wants to share incredible stories of service.

Depot staff want to encourage those who are or know a veteran with a story of service to consider participating. The Depot would like to hear more about the veterans' experiences while serving. To share a veteran's story, participants can either provide the content themselves or contact the Olde Towne Depot for assistance with writing the story. A Depot staff member will listen as the veteran recalls the memory, then will record it and write a draft that the veteran can proof before it is submitted for the print collection.

Interested participants can email their story to depot@clintonms.org, or call 601-924-0113 to arrange a time to have their story recorded. Stories will be collected until February 15, 2019.
