

CCA archery season underway

Special to The Clinton Courier

Archery season is underway for Clinton Christian Academy. This will be the fifth year archery has been offered for grades four through twelve. The team will have ten to twelve meets and will advance to the state tournament, which will be held in April. Pictured (l to r) are Chloe Hodgkin, Spencer Cole and Chris Albritton.

Arts Council donates Depot painting

Special to The Clinton Courier

The Arts Council of Clinton recently donated a painting by Chris Shepherd of the historic Clinton Depot to the Olde Towne Depot. Arts Council board members hosted a February reception at the Depot for the painting presentation and for Arts Council grant recipients. Pictured (l to r) are Sarah LaMonte, artist Chris Shepherd, Olde Towne Depot Director Anna Boyd Hawks, and Arts Council President Bob Blanton.

Bus driver, Johnson, wins DOVE Award for January

Special to The Clinton Courier

Trina Johnson has the opportunity to interact with students every day on her bus route.

"Ms. Trina sometimes deals with disrespectful kids, but she never gets out of character for them, and she always has a lot of patience," said one student, Kiara.

For her hard work and positive attitude, Johnson is the recipient of the Dedication of Our Valued Employees — or DOVE — customer service award for the month of January. She was recognized at the Clinton School Board's February meeting.

"We started this award in 2014 as a way to highlight employees who have a heart for serving others and who demonstrate excellence in customer service," said Dr. Tim Martin, superintendent of schools. "We appreciate employees like Ms. Johnson who go above and
