Halloween fun at Clara Mae's

Submitted by Clara Snell

The guests arrived dressed in their favorite costume with their dolls all dressed ready to party. As they greeted each other and found their spot at the table that was decorated with pumpkins and trays with paper cats to be put together as a project. The first activity was putting hands on the wall. Clara draws around each one and then the girls write their names and ages in the hands. They received a name tag and a stand for their doll so they could be a part of the party. After they got their cats together, they proceeded to make finger puppets, having to sew them together and gluing all the features on to make them look real.

After everyone finished their puppets, they all participated in the fashion show. As Clara narrated, the girls, with their dolls, took their fashion walk. After the walk they assembled for a group picture. Then back to the table to make a spider, which consisted of a pipe cleaner, a cloth body, googly eyes and a spider web. Then it was time for a treat. After that it was time to make caramel apples, candy apple suckers dipped in melted caramel. Then they had just enough time to make button spinners. When those were done it was time for a treasure hunt. It was made more difficult by having to use a flashlight to follow a map, but the treasure was eventually found. Each girl got their treasures, got their pail with lots of goodies and gathered up their projects, said their goodbyes and headed home.

Thanks to all the moms and grandmas that stayed to help with the projects. A special thanks to Cheryl Crandall, who gave up her afternoon to help with the party, I couldn't have done it without her. I feel it is such a privilege to be able to bring a little bit of joy to the children, which they bring a lot more and have such a fun time doing it in such a challenging world.

Again we ran out of time to do all the things we were planning on, but another time.
