

Nevis Pig Races can resolve many perplexing issues

Each year, we have had featured races – many being political. After all, politicians are an easy mark, and what is more fitting than a surrogate pig to represent them?

For the past 10 years, the Nevis Pig Races have sorted out many important worldwide issues. In 2009, Norm Coleman and Al Franken were vying for the open U.S. Senate seat in Minnesota. After the November 2008 election, only 350 votes separated the two; it appeared Minnesota was going to suffer a months-long court battle to determine the winner of the race. Forget the lawsuits and name-calling. We let the pigs decide the winner in 14 seconds! Welcome Senator Franken!

Our pig races have also matched Donald Trump vs. Vladimir Putin and Trump vs. Kim Jong Un (who had the worst hair style in 2018?). A pig race even ended the debate on which was the best era of music – it was the 1960s!

Famous past guests that have been in attendance at the Nevis Pig Races include U.S. Presidents Clinton, Obama and Trump, and foreign leaders Putin and Jong Un, the Most Interesting Man in the World, and even His Holiness the Pope.

Since 2019 is the Chinese Year of the Pig, maybe some famous Chinese dignitary will show up this year (I hope we can pronounce their name).

Currently, Hollywood is trying to determine which is the funniest movie of modern times. What was the best comedy movie: Airplane!, Caddyshack, Animal House, Naked Gun or Blazing Saddles? Who knows, maybe our famous guest this year will be Bill Murray!

Also, the Democrat Party has asked for some help. They have 24+ presidential candidates, dividing up potential votes. Our problem is that we only have so many pigs. We helped the Republicans with their field in 2015, but they only had 15 candidates. The Nevis Pig Races can solve a lot of issues, but there is a limit. If one of those candidates would actually lower the nation's spending, reduce the budget, shrink the number of federal departments – they could become THE Candidate.

What is the best branch of the U.S. military? Okay, that depends on which one you were in and what you had to do. We could debate this all day and not agree on a winner, so why not let the pigs decide? Running in the final race of the day will be Army (Patton), Marines (Gunny Grunt), Navy (Popeye), Air Force (B-52) and Coast Guard (Doug Monro) – not a loser in the bunch.

"Never wrestle with pigs. You both get dirty, and the pig likes it."

– George Bernard Shaw

How to Draw a Pig

by Lil Hammy

1. Draw a circle. Then in whatever computer program you use or with a pencil, picture a circle, and add to it with each numbered step.
2. Make an oval in the lower half of the circle.
3. Draw two little circles in the oval.
4. In the upper half of the circle, color two solid dots.
5. Draw two triangles on top of the main circle.

6. Then add a "smile!"

"WALLOW" in the mud has no time for stops, 'cause if he don't win, he'll be chops!

It's not true that you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. In the case of the Nevis Pigmeister, not only can you make the purse, you can fill it to capacity and beyond without anyone being the wiser.
