

King and Queen of the Soybean

The 2018 King and Queen Bean were Brad Thompson and Stephanie Scott.

The pilot Club of Martin has announced the candidates for the 6th Annual King and Queen of the Bean contest and it's time to vote.

Nominated for King Bean are Johnny Nanney, owner of Cadillac's Bar & Grill; Cory Davis owner of Performance Chiropractic; and Patrick Stooksberry, Stooksberry Family Dental.

Contestants for Queen are: Keely Nanney, Attorney with Rainey, Kizer, Reviere & Bell; Jerri Conley, AGR House Mother; Krissy Harrison, owner of Halo Salon.

This fundraiser will be used toward the clubs philanthropy, Brain Awareness, specifically to purchase bicycle helmets for the young participants in the Bicycle Rodeo sponsored by Martin pilot Club and The Optimist club as well as expanding the playground at Virginia Weldon Park. The club is also working to get bathrooms installed at the park.

Containers bearing a picture of each individual contestant will be placed at locations throughout Martin and will be interchanged in other various locations now, through the beginning of September. The contestant receiving the most votes through monetary donations will be crowned. Deposit your loose change and your dollar bills in the container for the person you support for this great honor. Members of the club ask citizens to donate generously so that they can continue their many projects for our community.

The winners will be crowned at the TN Soybean Mayor's Kickoff Luncheon.
