

Submitted photos

Three wonderful girls blessed the residents of Brookstone Estates by creating two snowpeople just outside the dining room window. The snowpeople creators are Kate Foltz, Ainsley Rennert and Brogan Rennert. They made the snow people while the residents watched as they ate lunch Saturday, Jan. 12. Snow fun was had by all!

Photo: Rachel Ray

After the first major snowfall for the region, many area kids and kids at heart headed to Tuscola's Wimple Park for sledding Saturday, Jan. 12. Cousins Emma Wienke (4) (back) and Maeve Wienke (3) are all smiles as they zoom down the hill together.

Photo: Rachel Ray

Emma Spillman (front) with her sister Anna had fun sledding at Wimple Park after the first big snow of the year Saturday, Jan. 12.

Potential for more snow this weekend

According to the National Weather Service a strong winter storm is taking aim at Illinois and set to arrive late Friday, Jan. 18 and last through Saturday, Jan. 19. While, no official snowfall forecast was released by press time Tuesday, the potential for several more inches of snow is possible.

Submitted photo

The Woods siblings took advantage of the six inches of snowfall Saturday, Jan. 12 and created an enormous, 9-foot snowman at their home. Pictured from left are Noah Woods, Lauren Woods and Nicholas Woods.

Photo: Rachel Ray

Flesor's Candy Kitchen staff and friends in downtown Tuscola joined in the fun by creating this snowcook in front of the restaurant at the intersection of Main and Sale streets Saturday, Jan. 12.