TERESA VILLARREAL

What is a festival without vendors?

One of the highlights of the La Salle County Fair is the variety of vendors who travel from all over the great State of Texas to showcase and sell their arts & crafts, gadgets, unique décor, and jewelry.

Now, after two decades of festivals under their belt, the LSCF anticipates another great year of treasure to find. Vendors from all across Texas, along with local townsfolk will gather at the La Salle Exhibit Hall from March 8-10.

Arts and crafts of every style and variety will be exhibited in a feat of cultural flare. Whatever it is you are seeking, there could be a high probability of finding it. Items range from jewelry to outdoor décor, and the choices are boundless.

Handcrafted items created by local students from all grade levels who took part in the annual Art Contests will be on display as well as the contributions provided by adults in their own prospective divisions.

A feast not just for the eyes For the Foodies out there awaiting the delights of "Fair Food", food vendors are ready to please. With an endless spread of deliciousness, these individuals are ready to arouse the senses and satiate hunger!

From turkey legs and street tacos to the sweetness of cotton candy and funnel cakes, be ready to enjoy a weekend of culinary delights!

Whether you are in it to shop or simply to cool down from the heat of the day's festivities, the vendors are prepared to provide a wondrous feast for your senses to behold!

Welcome to Cotulla!
