make-believe games over the years. One of those pastimes often popular among the youngsters was playing church. ]
Maybe we can all remember doing something similar. Perhaps the available chairs would be lined up into rows, a discussion would be held as to who would be the preacher, who would be the song leader, and who would sit and listen as church services were held in this grand game.
All the kids seemed to have a grand time playing church. The biggest and most aggressive youngsters would usually end up being the leaders while the smaller and quieter ones were content to be entertained by those up front tained by those up front. Eventually, those sitting in the chairs would seem in the chairs would seem to lose interest and wander away to play some other game and at that point, church would be dismissed for lack of interest.

It seems still to be a popular game for many adults these days. Many are still playing church. They line up in their seats to be entertained. If it's pretty good they may it's pretty good they may come fairly often, unless come fairly often, unless more exciting to them, such as the lake, or the golf course, or some road trip. Eventually, they seem to drift off to play something else, and the game of church is postponed until a more convenient time.

I believe it is time all people stopped playing church. It is time we grew up and realized that unless we seek God first we are only playing games.

Even though many in our community may not keep up weekly with our tournament, people perk up. They pitch in money to help provide food and pay for expenses for the boys, the cheerleaders, and the band. Business owners decorate store

We all need something to take the routine out of our lives. We need diversion from the ordinary. There was time when I would have time when I would have
