2020 Kentucky Official Visitor's Guide unveiled

Cover Featuring J.D. Shelburne

Issue highlights

2020 as the Year of Music in Kentucky

The Kentucky Department of Tourism today unveiled the 2020 Official Visitor's Guide cover featuring Kentucky native and Nashville recording artist J.D. Shelburne. This issue includes many Kentucky artists highlighting 2020 as the Year of Music in Kentucky.

"Tourism and hospitality create and support thousands of jobs and help to grow our economy across the Commonwealth," said Governor Andy Beshear. "Our new visitor's guide is our invitation to everyone to come to Kentucky and spend time enjoying our breathtaking state and national parks, adventure tourism, culinary and music scenes, the world's best horses and bourbon and so much more. As we grow tourism, we will focus on increasing wages for our Kentucky families working in the industry."

"Music plays such a vital part in our state's history that it is only fitting we highlight the Year of Music and feature many Kentucky artists, including J.D. Shelburne, in this year's Visitor's Guide," said Mike Berry, Secretary of the Tourism, Arts and Heritage Cabinet. "The passion J.D. has for Kentucky is infectious and we are thrilled to have him as our partner in celebrating music across the Commonwealth!"

Taylorsville native and country music artist J.D. Shelburne helped kick off the year of music by performing "My Old Kentucky Home" and a new song he wrote to be released in June, "Straight From Kentucky," during the unveiling.

"As a native of Kentucky, words can't describe how honored and humbled I am to be selected for the cover of Kentucky's Official Visitor's Guide," said Shelburne. "Growing up on my family's farm, my love of this land stems from the values they instilled in me: a strong work ethic, a love of family, and having a passion for what you do. I have been fortunate enough to be a part of many milestones throughout my career, and this is certainly one of my proudest moments."

Shelburne is also one of several Kentucky musicians featured in an all-new digital and social media series by the Kentucky Department of Tourism called "Sound Travels" premiering in May.

Talent runs deep in the Bluegrass state, producing some of the finest musicians to grace a stage – regardless of region or genre. Kentucky has it all - alternative, bluegrass, country, newgrass, pop, R&B and more. The new visitor's guide offers ideas of musical attractions to visit and musical things to do across the state, plus gives readers an idea of the long history of music in Kentucky.

The visitor's guide serves as the main fulfillment piece for state tourism, with 400,000 copies printed and distributed worldwide to attract visitors to Kentucky. The guide shares travel tips, stories and regional highlights, while focusing on the main pillars of Kentucky tourism: music, bourbon, horses, culinary, outdoors, arts and history.

The Kentucky Department of Tourism is an agency within the Tourism, Arts and Heritage Cabinet, which promotes the Commonwealth as a travel destination. In 2018, Tourism in Kentucky generated an economic impact of more than $11 billion.

The Tourism industry supports over 94,500 jobs and generates more than $787 million in taxes. Visit www.Kentucky-tourism.com

Quarles Encourages KY Farmers to submit Nominations

$10,000 Conservation Award Available for a Kentucky Farmer

Agriculture Commissioner Dr. Ryan Quarles is encouraging Kentucky farm families to consider submitting nominations for the Leopold Conservation Award by April 1, 2020.

"Kentucky agriculture has a long history of being responsible with the earth's natural resources," Commissioner Quarles said. "The Leopold Conservation Award recognizes a Kentucky farmer or forester who is a great steward of the land. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture is proud to partner with the Sand County Foundation, the Kentucky Agricultural Council, and the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts to support this important award."

Given in honor of renowned conservationist Aldo Leopold, the $10,000 award honors Kentucky farmers and other private landowners who voluntarily demonstrate outstanding stewardship and management of natural resources. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture contributes $3,000 toward the award with money from the Ag Tag Fund, which is funded by voluntary donations from farmers when they buy or renew their farm vehicle license plates.
