TeleHealth offered

in Russell County for Patients

Cheyenne Popplewell
The Times Journal

During the COVID-19 Pandemic, technology is something we should all be thankful for. For some, things such as Facetime is the only way to communicate with loved ones while social distancing is implemented. Another reason to be thankful for technology is that doctors can provide telehealth - or as some practices call it Dr. On Call - to their patients without meeting face-to-face.

Telehealth allows care for patients to be presented to them in a new way that is safe and convenient. The patient can connect to a provider from the comfort of their home using a computer, tablet, or smart phone through a video conference.

According to the Cum-

All Kentuckians

Mask are Mandatory Effective May 11

Cheyenne Popplewell
The Times Journal

Last week Governor Andy Beshear discussed the details on re-opening the state of Kentucky. This will not be a fast-paced process, as Kentuckians have already seen. However, Governor Beshear wants to re-open while continuing the steps already put in place to keep Kentuckians safe from COVID-19.

According to WBKO, Governor Beshear announced new regulations and goals for the "Healthy at Work" initiative. One regulation will be that all Kentuckians will have to wear a mask in public by May 11. Beshear said people who do not follow the guidelines will not be cited, but they will be asked to put on masks. Another part of the new regulation is that it is mandatory for businesses. Businesses not masking could be grounds for temporary closure.

A post was made on Facebook asking oth-
