CU School of Music to host annual Honors Band Clinic

Campbellsville University's School of Music will be hosting its annual Honors Band clinic Feb. 13-14.

Over 170 of some of the best high school instrumentalists across Kentucky were nominated by their band directors to be selected to participate in this event, according to Jennifer Tinnell, director of bands/instructor in music.

Approximately 88 musicians were chosen to participate in the band and will spend Feb. 13-14 rehearsing together and working with the guest conductor, Dr. David McCullough, to prepare for a final concert Friday, Feb. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in Ransdell Chapel.

The public is invited to the concert that is free of charge.

Dr. David McCullough is professor of music and coordinator of brass studies and horn at the University of North Alabama in Florence, Ala.

McCullough was the first Campbellsville University Tiger Marching Band conductor and will be the clinician/conductor. He was the long-time director of bands at Campbellsville University (1991-2008). While at CU, McCullough founded and directed the Tiger Marching Band (1992-2004) and received numerous awards during his time at the university.

Along with welcoming McCullough back to campus, several alumni from Campbellsville University will be returning "home" as they bring their own high school band members back for the Honors Band Clinic.

Farm Bureau announces '20 scholarship opportunities

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Education Foundation is now accepting applications from graduating high school seniors for their annual collegiate scholarship awards.

Kentucky Farm Bureau offers six statewide and dozens of county-specific scholarships that may be used at any accredited college or trade school.

In 2019, the KFB Education Foundation, in partnership with individual county Farm Bureaus, awarded more than $460,000 in scholarships to deserving students across the Commonwealth.

2020 KFB scholarship applicants must be the child of a KFB member and remain such during the duration of the scholarship. Additionally, they must graduate from high school within the calendar year they apply for the scholarship. Application materials must be submitted by February 28. Interested students can visit kyfb.com/scholarships for more information or to apply.
