pient of PPE from Lexington Rotary Club Lexington Manor

Lexington Manor Senior Care in Lexington was the recipient of some good fortune from the Lexington Rotary Club. On Thursday, May 14, the volunteer organization donated $1000 worth of Personal Protection Equipment (PPE) to the senior care facility that had recently struggled with finding the gear. Lexington Rotary member Ed Thurmond said the club had a difficult time tracking down any PPE in order to donate, amid the coronavirus pandemic. A factory in Summit, Mississippi called "Gigantic bag," (yes, the b is lowercase) had converted its production facility to begin making PPE. Lexington Rotary Club became aware the Lexington Manor Senior Care was out of surgical gowns and could not find an immediate supplier. The club used $500 of its own funds and a $500 matching Rotary District *The Meat House - "Eat 6820 grant to donate 550 surgical gowns.
