

Wins in 2020 competition season

bama, earned the group Grand Champion as well as Best Overall Effect, Best Choreography and Best Vocals. Brayden Bullock won Opelika's solo competition.

The final competition of the year took the Ambassadors to Keller, Texas, where they won Grand Champions as well as Best Choreography.

AMBADORS

Linton said she is encouraged by the quality of talent she sees every year.

"The amount of talent and dedication these students have constantly amazes me," she said, "especially when it comes to rehearsing and putting together a competition set."

Assistant director Alison Custer echoed Linton's sentiments.

"From the start of the season, these students showed an eagerness to learn and strive to do their very best this year," Custer said.

Custer added that, after winning their first competition this season, the students showed real determination in improving individually as well as a group.

"The confidence and energy this group carried on stage was contagious to every audience they faced."

Linton said that the students were not the only ones who put in hard work for this year's show. She said the year could not have happened without the dedicated parents.

"They not only cheer for our kids, but they help us behind the scenes - building sets, loading and unloading equipment, and driving Penske trucks for each competition."

Carol Joy Sparkman assisted Linton and Custer directing the pit. Demetries Morrow, Denton Carney and Katie Barr choreographed the show.

The Ambassadors will perform their competition show at the 2020 Attaché Spring Revue April 29-May 2 at Clinton High School.

Auditions for the 2020-2021 season are Tuesday, April 14, and Thursday, April 16, and are open to students going into seventh, eighth and ninth grade.

