

continue to be stewards of the land, crops and livestock. Some media might try to paint a different picture of US agriculture, but I love seeing connections made with farmers and non-farmers and removing barriers so we can learn from each other. This is a small world and a simple and polite conversation can go a long way to building bridges to the future," Oldfield said.

Oldfield resides in Canton and his wife Pattie and children Lauren and Nick. He still helps on the family's farm in the Farmington area, where they grow corn and soybeans, and raise cattle.

Oldfield was among the farmers being recognized by the Fulton County Farm Bureau during March, in recognition National Agriculture Week March 22-28. A true life-long learner, he is currently completing an Ed.D. from Ferris State University in Big Rapids, Michigan.

AG INSTRUCTOR JEFF Bash and President Curt Oldfield represented Spoon River College as panel members at an Ag Roundtable that was hosted by WBYS.
